Key Concepts

Structure & Function

The judicial branch is responsible for interpreting the Constitution and laws. It is made up of the Supreme Court and lower federal courts. The Supreme Court is the highest court in the land and has the final say on all legal matters.

Lower federal courts are responsible for hearing cases that involve federal law. They are organized into circuits, with each circuit having a court of appeals. The Supreme Court is made up of nine justices, who are appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

The Supreme Court's Judicial Review

Students will learn about the Supreme Court's power of judicial review.

Working & Making

The Supreme Court has the power to declare laws and executive actions unconstitutional. This power is known as judicial review. It is a key part of the system of checks and balances.

Judicial Process

The judicial process begins with a case being filed in a court. The case then goes through several steps, including discovery, trial, and appeal. The Supreme Court is the final court of appeal. It hears cases that involve federal law and the Constitution.

The Supreme Court's decisions are binding on all lower courts. This means that once the Supreme Court has ruled on a case, all other courts must follow that ruling. This is how the Supreme Court ensures that the law is applied consistently across the country.
