|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| Let no Images Be hung with Caesar'strophies. I'll about. And drive away thevulgar from the streets: So do you toowhere you perceive them thick. Thesegrowing feathers plucked from Caesar'swing Will make him fly an ordinary pitch.Who else would soar above the view ofmen And keep us all in servilefearfulness.Act 1, Scene 1 |                                |                                 |
| If it be ought toward the general good,Set honour in one eye and death i' th'other. And I will look on bothindifferently: For let the gods so speedme as I love the name of honour morethan I fear death.Act 1, Scene 2                                                                                                                       |                                |                                 |
