Level: A Study Dr. Shirin R. Shaikh,2017-06-30 The main aim of this book is to connect in a straightforward way the growing body of second language vocabulary research with teacher actions in classrooms Words are pervasive in our life The words that we use express and shape our identity Our vocabulary gives away our social and educational background It is a major factor in determining what we understand It opens or closes access to sources of information that will impact our future Today vocabulary acquisition is considered an integral area of language teaching by linguists teachers and researchers They have come to understand the role of lexicon in language learning and communication Therefore during the past three decades the field of second language acquisition has seen renewed interest in vocabulary learning But the scene was different few decades ago For many years vocabulary was considered unimportant in language teaching Its neglect in part may be due to specialisation in linguistic research on syntax and phonology This may have fostered a climate in which vocabulary was considered an unimportant element in the learning of a second or foreign language This view largely dominated the 1940 s 1950 s and 1960 s The period between 1940 60 was an uncertain period for vocabulary as an aspect of language teaching In this period vocabulary was seen mainly as a problem of selection and gradation for the target learners It was only in 1970 s that vocabulary was given some place of importance in language teaching but still it was considered less important when compared with syntax and phonology For years second language learners have complained about their lack of vocabulary in their new language During this time experts in our field did not give much importance to vocabulary However since the mid 1990s there has been a renewed interest in research on second language vocabulary issues such as student needs teaching techniques learner strategies incidental learning and vocabulary for specific purpose Today lexical knowledge is acknowledged to be central to communicative competence and the acquisition and development of second language. This study is probably the first systematic attempt to expand the students' active vocabulary and to create word consciousness in the classroom. The aim of the present study is to examine students' knowledge of vocabulary at the college level and note the problem areas and follow the eclectic method to increase the students' word power in order to enable them to use more precise words instead of general ones. The students are taught words in lexical sets for quick expansion of vocabulary and they are also made to consider the paradigmatic and syntagmatic relations of words for better understanding of word meanings. Chapter I of this book deals with English as an international language and its position in India today. It also highlights the importance of vocabulary aspects of vocabulary and the principles of selection and gradation of vocabulary. Chapter II reviews the work already done in the field of vocabulary. Chapter III focuses on the aims and procedure adopted in the present study. It also highlights techniques of teaching new words and expanding vocabulary. Chapter IV presents an analysis of the data collected. The relative difficulty level of different questions in the pre test and the post test, the students' progress in the use of vocabulary and the conclusions of the study are presented in this chapter. I sincerely hope that the present study and the discussions will have an impact on the way teachers and learners view the teaching and learning of vocabulary in a second language.

The book of Revelation offers us an interesting theological dilemma. It states Rev 22:16 'I, Jesus, have sent my angel to testify unto you these things in the churches.' Revelation also states it is the true sayings of Jesus and that it is the testimony of Christ. If this is not the gospel of Jesus Christ, then what is it and should we consider it accursed testimony of an angel? If it is not to be considered accursed, then it cannot be some other gospel message; then what was already given previously? However, this is the conundrum: for if this is the gospel message, then why do so few understand it? There is a possibility which few consider, but is the overall thesis of this apology. The reason people don't understand revelation is because they never understood what the gospel message was in the first place. In that case, where does that put those who claim it is not essential for salvation? Do you not find it quite curious that the most personally given NT book by Jesus himself is the least understood and given the least importance for salvation in Christendom? There are numerous preachers and bible exegetes, but as Paul said, 'I bear them record that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge.' Most who profess the name of Christ are feeding on doctrines of devils and the ignorant. There are without question many qualified teachers and scholars with many years of dedication and solid education. However, teachers, no matter how well lettered or numbered in degrees if obtained from others who are just as equally ignorant in such matters, are just blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch. Frontiers Research Topic is to review and further explore the topic of unconscious processing in executive control. Executive control refers to the ability of the human brain mostly associated with prefrontal cortex activity to regulate the processing involved in the execution of novel or complex goal directed tasks. Previous studies or models of human cognition have assumed that executive control necessarily requires conscious processing of information. This perspective is in line with common sense and personal introspection which suggest that our choices are intentional and based on conscious stimuli. Nevertheless in the last few years several behavioural and cognitive neuroscience studies have put under scrutiny this assumption. Cumulating evidence is now showing that prefrontal executive control can involve or be triggered by unconscious processing of information with consequent effects on observed behaviours. One of the main methods adopted to study such unconscious mechanisms is masked priming consisting in presenting visually masked stimuli which nonetheless are shown to affect goal directed behaviour or influence constructs linked to executive control and prefrontal cortex activity e.g. task set, representation, response inhibition, conflict monitoring, error detection, reward processing, emotion regulation and task switching. This area of research is relatively young and while scientific evidence is emerging no general consensus has been reached yet on how to interpret these early findings: some researchers accept that executive control can involve unconscious processing, others momentarily put aside in first approximation this issue, others criticize this possibility on theoretical grounds e.g. pointing to the need of better definitions of terms such as control, conflict and consciousness or based on experimental findings. At this stage it appears necessary that researchers in the field make a collective effort to deepen the understanding of the unconscious mechanisms involved in executive control. This Research Topic will focus on neuroscience but it will welcome contributions on purely behavioural and psychophysiological studies, patient reports, computational investigations as well as philosophical and historical analyses of the relationship between executive control and consciousness. In particular we encourage experts in this field to submit contributions in the form of a reviews, opinions and discussions on existing literature concerning unconscious processing of information in executive control, b) original research articles both behavioural only and neuroimaging studies on unconscious processing of information in executive control, c) discussions and opinions on new methodologies to investigate this issue e.g. other than masked priming which has been the technique of choice in most of the existing studies.
