Edwards,1996 The Closed World offers a radically new alternative to the canonical histories of computers and cognitive science. Arguing that we can make sense of computers as tools only when we simultaneously grasp their roles as metaphors and political icons, Paul Edwards shows how Cold War social and cultural contexts shaped emerging computer technology and were transformed in turn by information machines. The Closed World explores three apparently disparate histories: the history of American global power, the history of computing machines, and the history of subjectivity in science and culture through the lens of the American political imagination. In the process, it reveals intimate links between the military projects of the Cold War, the evolution of digital computers, and the origins of cybernetics, cognitive psychology, and artificial intelligence. Edwards begins by describing the emergence of a closed world discourse of global surveillance and control through high technology military power. The Cold War political goal of containment led to the SAGE continental air defense system, RAND Corporation studies of nuclear strategy, and the advanced technologies of the Vietnam War. These and other centralized computerized military command and control projects for containing world scale conflicts helped closed world discourse dominate Cold War political decisions. Their apotheosis was the Reagan era plan for a Star Wars space based ballistic missile defense. Edwards then shows how these military projects helped computers become axial metaphors in psychological theory. Analyzing the Macy Conferences on cybernetics, the Harvard Psycho Acoustic Laboratory, and the early history of artificial intelligence, he describes the formation of a cyborg discourse. By constructing both human minds and artificial intelligences as information machines, cyborg discourse assisted in integrating people into the hyper complex technological systems of the closed world. Finally, Edwards explores the cyborg as political identity in science fiction, from the disembodied panoptic AI of 2001: A Space Odyssey to the mechanical robots of Star Wars and the engineered biological androids of Blade Runner, where Information Age culture and subjectivity were both reflected and constructed. Inside Technology series MotorBoating, 1973-10 The Naval Institute Guide to World Naval Weapons Systems, Norman Friedman, 1989. Lists and describes the weapons systems of all the world's navies, including surface, anti-aircraft, anti-submarine, and mine warfare.

MotorBoating, 1972-06 The Dock and Harbour Authority, 1983 Target Detection by Marine Radar, John N. Briggs, 2004-12-03. Radar is a legal necessity for the safe navigation of merchant ships, and within vessel traffic services, it is indispensable to the operation of major ports and harbours. Target Detection by Marine Radar concentrates solely on civil marine operations and explains how marine surveillance radars detect their targets. The book is fully illustrated and contains worked examples to help the reader understand the principles underlying radar operation and to quantify the importance of factors such as the technical features of specific equipment, the weather, target reflection properties, and the ability of the operator. The precision with which targets are positioned on the radar screen and with which their progress is tracked or predicted depends on how definitely they have been detected; therefore, a whole chapter has been devoted to the issue of accuracy. The various international regulations governing marine radar are examined, and a brief historical background is given to modern day practice and the book does with a discussion of the ways in which marine radar may develop to meet future challenges     Undersea Technology Handbook, Directory ,1974     Combat Fleets of the World ,1993     On a Cushion of Air Robin Paine,Robin Paine and Roger Syms,2012 This is the story of how private foreign enterprise in the form of Swedish Lloyd and Swedish America Line who formed a British company called Hoverlloyd galvanised the British Government in to supporting this new concept in transport through the formation of a British Rail subsidiary called Seaspeed
