

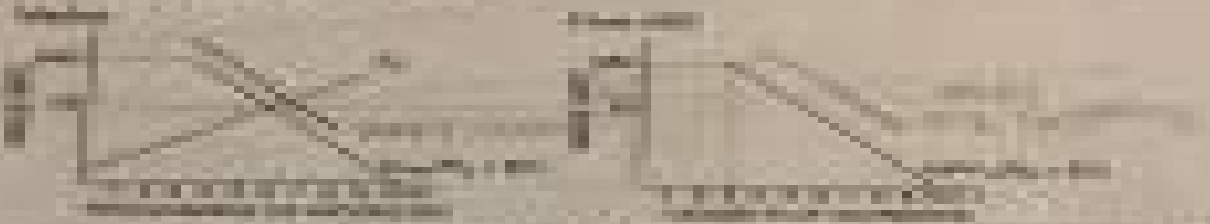

Figure 10.1 illustrates the relationship between the firm's production function and its cost function. The production function shows the relationship between the quantity of inputs and the quantity of output. The cost function shows the relationship between the quantity of output and the total cost of production.

Figure 10.1: The Relationship Between the Firm's Production Function and Its Cost Function

1. The firm's production function is concave, which implies that the marginal product of labor is diminishing. This is reflected in the downward-sloping marginal product curve in the left graph.
2. The firm's cost function is U-shaped, which implies that the marginal cost of production is initially decreasing and then increasing. This is reflected in the U-shaped total cost curve in the right graph.
3. The firm's marginal cost curve is upward-sloping, which implies that the marginal cost of production is increasing. This is reflected in the upward-sloping marginal cost curve in the right graph.
4. The firm's total cost curve is U-shaped, which implies that the total cost of production is initially decreasing and then increasing. This is reflected in the U-shaped total cost curve in the right graph.
5. The firm's marginal product curve is downward-sloping, which implies that the marginal product of labor is diminishing. This is reflected in the downward-sloping marginal product curve in the left graph.
6. The firm's marginal cost curve is upward-sloping, which implies that the marginal cost of production is increasing. This is reflected in the upward-sloping marginal cost curve in the right graph.
