Shifting Global World of Youth and Education explores how increasing migration and population changes are having an unprecedented impact on global education. Given that the number of children of migrant background is growing internationally, there is a need for increasing awareness of the educational attainment and cultural integration of this population group. This book presents international perspectives on migration and youth and analyses what kinds of effects such demographic changes are having on educational systems around the world. The chapters in this volume provide a fascinating insight into how countries around the world are dealing with loss or growth in their young population as well as changes to their education systems. Written by specialist academics from the relevant country, the book covers Cuba, Lithuania, the United Kingdom, the United States, Finland, Greece, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Latvia, China, Australia, India, Italy, and Poland. Taking into consideration the countries' social and political context, the chapters discuss educational issues surrounding curriculum, assessment, and the opportunities available for the support of young people. Conclusions are drawn about what could be done in the future for the benefit of both the migrant and the existing populations. The Shifting Global World of Youth and Education will be of great interest to academics, researchers, and postgraduate students in the disciplines of education, sociology, political sciences, and social work. The book will also give secondary teachers, teaching assistants, social workers, and youth workers the opportunity to reflect on their role within a national and international context.

Home Rule
Nandita Sharma, 2020-02-14
In Home Rule, Nandita Sharma traces the historical formation and political separation of Natives and Migrants from the nineteenth century to the present to theorize the portrayal of Migrants as colonial invaders. The imperial state category of Native, initially a mark of colonized status, has been revitalized in what Sharma terms the Postcolonial New World Order of nation states. Under postcolonial rule, claims to autochthony, being the Native people of a place, are mobilized to define true national belonging. Consequently, Migrants, the quintessential people out of place, increasingly face exclusion, expulsion, or even extermination. This turn to autochthony has led to a hardening of nationalism. Criteria for political membership have shrunk; immigration controls have intensified; all while practices of expropriation and exploitation have expanded. Such politics exemplify the postcolonial politics of national sovereignty, a politics that Sharma sees as containing our dreams of decolonization. Home Rule rejects nationalisms and calls for the dissolution of the ruling categories of Native and Migrant so we can build a common worldly place where our fundamental liberty to stay and move is realized.

Peter Marber, Daniel Araya, 2017-03-16

Can entrenched specialist systems in Europe and Asia successfully adopt the multidisciplinary liberal arts model? These are some of the questions put to leading scholars and senior higher education practitioners within this edited collection Beginning with historical context international contributors explore the contours of liberal arts education amid public calls for change in the United States the growing global interest in the approach outside the United States as well as the potential of liberal arts philosophy in a global knowledge economy
