our world running Industrial Policy in Europe Keith Cowling,2003-09-02 After a decade or more of privatisation and deregulation there is a growing consensus that government can have a positive role in promoting industrial development This book explores a variety of ways in which this might be made to happen A common theme is the need for participation at the appropriate level too often industrial policy has been hampered by overcentralised decision making Containing contributions by some of Europe s leading industrial economists Industrial Policy for Europe covers subjects from small business to macroeconomics Perspectives on Strategic Change Luca Zan,Stefano Zambon,Andrew M. Pettigrew,2007-09-04 Luca Zan Stefano Zambon Andrew M Pettigrew This book has developed from an international research workshop organized by the Dipartimento di Economia e Direzione Aziendale University of Venice and the Centre for Corporate Strategy and Change Warwick Business School University of Warwick The purpose of the workshop was to foster the growth of a European network of scholars and to help create a European perspective in studying strategic change The ten chapters in this book were first presented in Venice in May 1991 and have been substantially revised since then The ten commentaries on the chapters are in most cases substantial developments of the oral responses made at the workshop as indeed is the final review chapter by Andrew Van de Ven The theme of this book the study of strategic change processes remains as theoretically alive and empirically real in the 1990s as it did in the 1980s For many organizations in the European and North American context the 1980s was an era of radical change In this respect there is a wide array of examples Structural changes in old industries such as coal shipbuilding steel and heavy engineering led to a great employment loss and the impoverishment of certain regional economies that had remained dependent on those industries But it was not just the old industries that X INTRODUCTION experienced major change during the 1980s Strategic alignment of innovation to business Frances Fortuin,2023-08-28 This book addresses the crucial question for innovative prospector companies of how to bridge the gap between exploration and exploitation Whereas exploration deals with the search for new ideas and opportunities exploitation is about incrementally moving the performance bar a little bit higher Finding the right balance between exploration and exploitation is essential for the long term survival in today s highly dynamic business environments In a cross industry study of ten large multinational prospector companies which are world leaders in their respective industries it was discovered that the industry clockspeed the length between the subsequent product generations plays an essential role in bridging this gap The product generation life cycle PGLC typically ranged from just several months in short life cycle industries SLCIs such as electronics and the mobile phone industry to more than 10 years in long life cycle industries LLCIs such as aerospace and pharmaceuticals Our data indicate that companies operating in SLCIs face major problems in maintaining the long term knowledge base of their firms whereas companies in LLCIs tend to have problems in aligning their innovation strategy to the short term business needs To investigate the dynamics of strategic alignment in one of the LLCI companies a multinational supplier of industrial components a six year longitudinal study was conducted Here our data indicate that finding a funding structure that effectively balances exploration and exploitation combined with regular structured feedback between the exploration and exploitation function is needed to maintain long term strategic alignment CTOs and innovation managers can use this book by first establishing the industry clockspeed s in their respective industries or product range s and then benchmark their innovation processes to those of the first class SLCI or LLCI prospector companies included in this book
