Manufacturing the Mathematical Child Anna Llewellyn,2018-05-15 Mathematics is a subject held in high esteem around the world yet the teaching and learning of mathematics is rarely viewed as good enough and many find the subject difficult to comprehend or engage with In Manufacturing the Mathematical Child Anna Llewellyn asks some difficult questions in order to determine why this is the case and to question who it is that we allow to succeed at mathematics particularly within the context of neoliberalism where education is a product of the market By looking at the various sites of production Llewellyn examines the ways that key discursive spaces produce very different expectations of what it means to do mathematics and demonstrates that these place various homogenised expectations upon children Arguing that these are not natural but instead a reproduction of discursive norms the book demonstrates why some people fit these standardized ways of being and others do not Using England as a case study and referring to other international contexts Llewellyn argues that there is a functionality found within certain educational policy discourses and a romantic attachment to the natural child found within educational research neither of which can match what happens in the messy classroom As a result it becomes evident that exclusion from mathematics is inevitable for many children Original and exciting this book will be of great interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students within the fields of mathematics education childhood studies policy studies and Foucauldian or post structural analysis Assessing Children'S Mathematical Knowledge Cooper, Barry,Dunne, Mairead,1999-12-01 this work is highly relevant to the proliferation of accountability measures worldwide

James Scheurich and Douglas Foley In many countries the lives of teachers and children are increasingly dominated by programmes of national testing of mathematics and other subjects In England the majority of the items in such tests have set mathematical tasks in every day situations such as shopping This requires children to make decisions about whether to use or not their own every day knowledge and experience in their problem solving Some children are likely to have a better feel for this game than others

Assessing Children's Mathematical Knowledge draws on the analysis of national curriculum test data from more than 600 children of 10 11 and 13 14 years of age as well as in depth interviews with 250 of these as they attempt to solve test problems in order to explore the nature of the difficulties children experience with realistic items The book shows by comparing test and interview data that many children as a consequence of their confusion over the requirements of realistic test items fail in tests to demonstrate mathematical knowledge and understanding that they actually possess The book also explores whether this problem of invalid measurement is equally spread across children from different social backgrounds and across the sexes The book will be of interest to academics and teachers studying for advanced degrees in mathematics education sociology of education and educational assessment

Mapping Equity and Quality in Mathematics Education Bill Atweh, Mellony Graven, Walter Secada, Paola Valero, 2011-01-06 Concerns about quality mathematics education are often posed in terms of the types of mathematics that are worthwhile and valuable for both the student and society in general and about how to best support students so that they can develop this mathematics Concerns about equity are about who is excluded from the opportunity to develop quality mathematics within our current practices and systems and about how to remove social barriers that systematically disadvantage those students This collection of chapters summarises our learning about the achievement of both equity and quality agendas in mathematics education and to move forward the debate on their importance for the field

The Sutherland Inquiry Stewart R. Sutherland, Great Britain. Department for Children, Schools and Families, 2008 The Sutherland Inquiry HCP 62 session 2008 09 ISBN 9780102958393 is an independent inquiry remitted by the Office of the Qualifications and Examinations Regulator Ofqual and the Secretary of State for Children Schools and Families into the delivery of the National Curriculum tests in 2008 In July 2008 1 2 million pupils heard that their National Curriculum test results would be delayed The test delivery service represented a failure in customer delivery service to the pupils schools and also the markers upon whom the National Curriculum testing regime relies The primary responsibility must therefore rest with the American organisation ETS Global BV ETS which won the public contract to deliver the tests and failed its customers This report examines how this organisation secured the contract what its plans were and why its systems and process as a whole were not properly tested The report will also describe how ETS's systems failed during the test delivery process There was also a failure on the part of the Government's Non Departmental Public Body the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority to deliver its remit The report also sets out the procurement process that QCA used to select its delivery supplier ETS and how it managed the contract The report sets out a number of recommendations on how test delivery can improve in future years and has set out a number of key priorities including that the delivery process of the National Curriculum tests should be modernised and improved in consultation with the marking community including piloting online marking that whatever process is used should be thoroughly piloted and project managed to ensure schools and pupils get their results on time that the customer service provided to markers must be vastly improved to ensure that they are properly supported and are able to access up to date information

Aspects of Teaching Secondary Mathematics Linda Haggarty, 2003-09-02 If learners in the classroom are to be excited by mathematics teachers need to be both well informed about current initiatives and able to see how what is expected of them can be translated into rich and stimulating classroom strategies The book examines current initiatives that affect teaching mathematics and identifies pointers for action in the classroom Divided into three major sections it looks at the changing mathematics classroom at primary secondary and tertiary level major components of the secondary curriculum practical pedagogical issues of particular concern to mathematics teachers Each issue is explored in terms of major underpinnings and research in that area and practical ideas can be drawn from the text and implemented in the reader's classroom practice Each chapter has been written by a well respected writer researcher and practitioner in their field and all share a common goal to look thoughtfully and intelligently at some of the practical issues facing mathematics teachers and offer their perspectives on those issues
