English Second Language 2013 Paper 1:

English Language Teacher Education Minh Hue Nguyen, 2019-07-16 This book examines a range of complex issues concerning the professional experience i.e. practicum in English language teacher education with regard to curriculum design and implementation as well as professional learning. Drawing on a sociocultural perspective it explores the context of the professional experience preservice teachers as learners of English language teaching and the activity of learning to teach English language in connection with interrelated contextual and personal issues. Contextual issues such as policies, curricula, university-school partnerships and mentoring relations are investigated in relation to personal issues such as the beliefs, expectations, prior educational experiences, previous teaching experiences and cultural/linguistic backgrounds of preservice teachers. In turn, the book addresses professional learning issues including professional identity development, emotional experiences and pedagogical learning in depth. The book delves into the qualitative, fine-grained aspects of the professional experience while also making valuable conceptual contributions through a sociocultural analysis of the professional learning experience which can also be applied to research in other teacher education contexts. The findings presented here hold practical implications for English language teacher education in terms of developing a knowledge base for English language teaching and an effective model of professional experience to prepare English language teachers for working in today's expanded, diverse and dynamic neoliberal contexts.

Human Language Peter Hagoort, 2019-10-29 A unique overview of the human language faculty at all levels of organization. Language is not only one of the most complex cognitive functions that we command; it is also the aspect of the mind that makes us uniquely human. Research suggests that the human brain exhibits a language readiness not found in the brains of other species. This volume brings together contributions from a range of fields to examine human language capacity from multiple perspectives, analyzing it at genetic, neurobiological, psychological and linguistic levels. In recent decades, advances in computational modeling, neuroimaging and genetic sequencing have made possible new approaches to the study of language and the contributors draw on these developments. The book examines cognitive architectures, investigating the functional organization of the major language skills, learning and development trajectories, summarizing the current understanding of the steps and neurocognitive mechanisms in language processing, evolutionary and other preconditions for communication by means of natural language, computational tools for modeling language, cognitive/neuroscientific methods that allow observations of the human brain in action, including fMRI, EEG, MEG and others, the neural infrastructure of language capacity, the genome's role in building and maintaining the language-ready brain and insights from studying such language-relevant behaviors in nonhuman animals as birdsong and primate vocalization. Assessing English Proficiency for University Study J. Read, 2015-01-27 This book focuses on strategies and procedures for assessing the academic language ability of students entering an English medium university so that those with significant needs can have access to opportunities to enhance their language skills Beyond Age Effects in Instructional L2 Learning Simone E.

Pfenninger, David Singleton, 2017-04-21 This book constitutes a holistic study of how and why late starters surpass early starters in comparable instructional settings Combining advanced quantitative methods with individual level qualitative data it examines the role of age of onset in the context of the Swiss multilingual educational system and focuses on performance at the beginning and end of secondary school thereby offering a long term view of the teenage experience of foreign language learning The study scrutinised factors that seem to prevent young starters from profiting from their extended learning period and investigated the mechanisms that enable late beginners to catch up with early beginners relatively quickly Taking account of contextual factors individual socio affective factors and instructional factors within a single longitudinal study the book makes a convincing case that age of onset is not only of minimal relevance for many aspects of instructed language acquisition but that in this context for a number of reasons a later onset can be beneficial Language

Teacher Education and Technology Jeong-Bae Son, Scott Wendeatt, 2017-06-29 Language teachers competencies in computer assisted language learning CALL are a crucial factor affecting their own implementation of CALL However there is still a concern that many language teachers are not adequately prepared to make effective use of CALL or to identify and evaluate potential CALL solutions This can be the result of many different factors and raises the question of how to train teachers to develop their CALL knowledge and skills to a greater degree The discussion of approaches to training language teachers in the use of technology adopted in areas of Australia the UK and the US provides valuable insights for those already involved in this area and inspiration for those who have some interest in carrying out this kind of training but as yet have little or no experience This book explores the current status of CALL teacher education and discusses issues and challenges CALL teacher educators face in their own contexts Specifically it looks at postgraduate CALL courses offered at different universities to find ways of improving CALL teacher training It represents the first overview of a topic that is relevant to most postgraduate courses in Applied Linguistics or TESOL across the globe The use of technology for language learning and teaching is increasingly common but as is so often the case training for teachers in how to use that technology remains limited to a large extent by lack of expertise among trainers Pronunciation Fundamentals Tracey M.

Derwing, Murray J. Munro, 2015-07-15 The emergence of empirical approaches to L2 pronunciation research and teaching is a powerful fourth wave in the history of the field Authored by two leading proponents of evidence based instruction this volume surveys both foundational and cutting edge empirical work and pinpoints its ramifications for pedagogy The authors begin by tracing the history of pronunciation instruction and explicating L2 phonetic learning processes Subsequent chapters explore the themes strengths and ethical problems of the field through the lens of the intelligibility principle The importance of error gravity and the need for assessment and individualized instruction are highlighted and the role of L2 accents in social contexts is probed. Material readily available elsewhere has been omitted in favour of an emphasis on the how, why and when of pronunciation instruction. Anyone with an interest in L2 pronunciation especially graduate students, language teachers and experienced researchers will find much value in this indispensable resource.

The Acquisition of Chinese as a First and Second Language Xiaohong Wen, 2020-11-25. This volume through highly selective and rigorous review processes has collected eight empirical studies showcasing research advances in multiple domains including child first language, adult additional language and heritage language acquisition. The studies are theoretically motivated and have adopted a spectrum of innovative methodological strategies to achieve a broader understanding of the nature of learning and the learning process. The volume encompasses a wide range of contents:

- 1 The L1 and L2 acquisition of syntax, semantics, phonetics and the syntax-discourse interface
- 2 Data comparisons across different learner groups: L1 Chinese children, L2 Chinese learners and Chinese heritage speakers
- 3 Acquisition of language skills: speaking, listening and writing, and last but not least
- 4 Instructional interventions including consciousness raising and metacognitive strategy training.

The volume is intended to bridge the gap between research and instruction by helping teachers understand their students and their learning. Informed by research, teachers can opt for appropriate pedagogical approaches and instructional conditions for their students. The volume is guest edited by Xiaohong Wen, Professor in Applied Linguistics and Chinese language Acquisition at the University of Houston.

Cultural Migrants and Optimal Language Acquisition Fanny Forsberg Lundell, Inge Bartning, 2015-08-04. This volume investigates cultural migrants: people who from their own free will move to another country because of their interest in the target language and culture. Chapters include studies on cultural migrants acquiring French, Italian, Spanish and English and consider linguistic, psycholinguistic, sociolinguistic and pragmatic aspects of language acquisition. Cultural migrants have social and psychological advantages when acquiring a second language as adults and the study of their linguistic knowledge and production increases our understanding of the possibilities and limits of L2 ultimate attainment. The work thus fills a gap in our understanding of high level proficiency and will be of interest to researchers working in the field of SLA as well as to social scientists studying the relationship between language, culture and integration.
