La Chair Glaise:

Shaping and Reshaping the Caribbean Martin Munro, 2000 The current drive in Caribbean literary studies stresses similarities and points of convergence between the various islands of the archipelago and their authors the fundamental aim of which is to move closer to an all encompassing theory of Caribbeanness Martin Munro challenges this movement and through a study of the work of Aime Cesaire and Rene Depestre proposes an alternative vision of the present and future of Caribbean literature The main areas of inquiry are how these two Caribbean writers construct their sense of themselves how they relate to the Caribbean and to the wider world and how they have been influenced by the historical and cultural particularities of their respective islands Aime Cesaire s sense of self and of the Caribbean is essentially shaped around the circuit triangulaire the model of Africa Europe Caribbean interdependencies ultimately inherited from the time of the slave trade Munro shows how Cesaire views the Caribbean as a deeply traumatic insubstantial space how he looks to Africa for his lost sense of self and how Europe is seen at once as the malevolent colonial power and also the home of poetry and learning Rene Depestre s Caribbean shape is quite different Africa is relatively absent in Depestre s work Europe is not presented as a threat and Depestre unlike Cesaire sees in the Caribbean an energy and a creativity brought about by the historical fusion of disparate cultures An important factor in shaping Depestre s model of Caribbeanness is his long exile from Haiti and Depestre s experience of exile is analysed in detail The combination of broad contextualization diverse theoretical approaches and close analysis of these important writers work produces a strong argument against attempts to view and read writing from the Caribbean as one literature Difference and diversity it is argued predominate as Caribbean writing embraces the new century and the whole notion of Caribbeanness undergoes further processes of highly creative splintering and reshaping

Taboo Hannah Thompson, 2017-07-05 French realist texts are driven by representations of the body and depend on corporeality to generate narrative intrigue But anxieties around bodily representation undermine realist claims of objectivity and transparency Aspects of bodily reality which threaten les bonnes moeurs gender confusion sexual appetite disability torture murder child abuse and disease rarely occupy the foreground and are instead spurned or only partially alluded to by writers and critics This wide ranging study uses the notion of the taboo as a powerful means of interpreting representations of the body The hidden bodies of realist texts reveal their secrets in unexpected ways Thompson reads texts by Sand Rachilde Maupassant Hugo Barbey d'Aureville Mirbeau and Zola alongside modern theorists of the body to show how the figure of the taboo plots an alternative model of author reader relations based on the struggle to speak the unspeakable Dr Hannah Thompson is a Senior Lecturer in French at Royal Holloway University of London Her first book Naturalism Redressed Identity and Clothing in the Novels of Emile Zola was published by Legenda in 2004 Mgr

The Nothing Machine Robert Ziegler, 2007-01-01 In an era when reality was aestheticized as collectibles Octave Mirbeau unleashed his fiction like a destructive machine setting fire to stale material and discredited ideologies burning them as fuel and expelling texts as clean emissions In this first English language overview of all the novels published under Mirbeau's name this study argues that Mirbeau is unique among his fin de siècle peers Unlike the Decadents whose art was a reliquary in which dead inspiration was preserved Mirbeau disengaged himself from the corpses of past works Abhorring tradition and complacency Mirbeau elaborated a kinetics of fiction that made the novel into an agent of violent transformation Contrasting the Decadents' aesthetic of elegant morbidity with Mirbeau's vitalistic view of fiction this volume shows Mirbeau modeling himself on the figure of the torture artist cutting up his finished works building novels to disassemble them fitting them together in revolutionary ways Creativity for Mirbeau fertilizes a garden of supplices a cemetery smoldering with decomposing texts that are resolved into their constituent parts and then reemerge in different guises In Mirbeau's writing lives and art works are only transient aggregates of material and creativity is immortalized through the perishing of old forms
