Reconceptualizing English Education in a Multilingual Society Isabel Pefianco Martin, 2018-03-01 This book brings together chapters that describe, investigate and analyze the place of English in education in multilingual Philippines. Unlike most studies on languages in education which take a neutral de-contextualized stance, this volume takes a pluricentric view of the English language by positioning it in relation to its varieties as well as to other languages in the country. Because of the changing realities of English in the Philippines, traditional assumptions about the language as monolithic and unchanging, as well as about how it should be taught and learned, need to be revisited and re-conceptualized.

Integration, Identity and Language Maintenance in Young Immigrants Ludmila Isurin, Claudia Maria Riehl, 2017-04-12 The volume presents a selection of contributions related to integration, adaptation, language attitudes and language change among young Russian-speaking immigrants in Germany. At the turn of the century, Germany, which defined itself as a mono-ethnic and mono-racial society, has become a country integrating various immigrant groups. Among those, there are three different types of Russian immigrants: Russian Germans, Russian Jews, and ethnic Russians. All three are often perceived as Russians by the host country. The three groups have the same linguistic background but a different ethnicity, known as nationality, a separate entry in Russian official documents. This defined the immigration paths and the subsequent integration into German society, where each group strives to position itself in relation to two other groups in the same migrant space. The book discusses the complexities of belonging and self-other assignment to groups, as well as the attitude to language maintenance among young Russian-speaking immigrants.

Regulating Information Asymmetry in the Residential Real Estate Market Devin Lin, 2017-07-06 This book conducts a detailed examination of the current form of the Hong Kong residential property regulatory system, the 2013 Residential Properties Firsthand Sales Ordinance, Cap 621. The author sheds light on how the new legislation promotes a number of values, including information symmetry, consumer protection, the free market, and business efficacy. It provides a detailed account of how the regulatory mechanism has evolved over the past three decades to catch unconscionable sales tactics, such as selective information and/or misrepresentation of location, size, completion date, and past transactions, and monitor sales practices in order to protect the interests of stakeholders in this ever-changing first-hand residential property market. This book breaks down this complicated subject matter by focusing a number of chapters each on a specific attribute of the residential property on sale. It then examines the various channels through which the information is communicated to the prospective buyer and discusses misrepresentation of the key information in sales of residential properties as criminal liability. The tension between consumer's rights on one hand and the pursuit of free market principles on the other is but one example of the conflicting values thoroughly discussed in the book. Others include superstition vs. modernization and clarity vs. flexibility. Aimed at those with an interest in consumer protection and transparency-oriented legislation in commercialized real estate transactions, this book seeks to provide an in-depth discussion of the latest trends and directions of travel. The
