The Responsible University Mads P. Sørensen, Lars Geschwind, Jouni Kekäle, Rómulo Pinheiro, 2019-12-03 This book explores how the notion of the responsible university manifests itself at various levels within Nordic higher education. As the impetus of the knowledge society has catapulted the higher education sector to the forefront of policy agendas, universities and other types of higher education institutions face increasing scrutiny, assessment, and accountability. This book examines this phenomenon using the Nordic countries as cases in point, given the strong public commitment towards widening participation and public research investments. The editors and contributors analyse the history and current transformations of the idea of the responsible university, investigate new innovations in the educational landscape, and look into how universities have begun to organise themselves to become more responsible. Drawing together scholars from the humanities and the social sciences, this interdisciplinary collection will be of interest and value to students and scholars of the role and nature of the modern university, in addition to practitioners and policy makers tasked with finding solutions to address the competing and often contradictory demands posed by a responsibility agenda. The Steps We Take Ellen Ann Fentress, 2023-08-23 Chosen as Mississippi's 2024 Great Read for Adults by the Mississippi Center for the Book. Ellen Ann Fentress is a veteran writer for the New York Times, the Washington Post, and The Atlantic. She's also a seasoned southern woman, specifically a white Mississippi one. Women do a lot for free, no matter the era, no matter the location, she observes in The Steps We Take: A Memoir of Southern Reckoning. As a good southern woman, Fentress felt a calling to help others. As a teenager, she volunteered as a March of Dimes quarter collector and sang hymns at a soup and salvation homeless shelter. Later, she married, reared two daughters, renovated a 1941 Colonial home, practiced her French, and served as the bookkeeper for her husband's business. She followed the scripts she was handed by society. But there were the convenient lies and silences that she and most southern women make that American white women have settled on in the name of convention and to be honest, inertia. For Fentress, her dodges both behind her front door and beyond became impossible to miss. Eventually, along with claiming a personal second act at midlife, she realized the most urgent community work she could do was to spur truth-telling about the history she knew well and participated in. She was one of the nearly one million students in the South enrolled in all-white segregation academies, a sweeping movement away from public education that continues to warp the Deep South today. To document and engage with this history, she founded the Admissions Project, Racism, and the Possible in Southern Schools, which has been featured in the Washington Post, Slate, Forbes, and other publications. The Steps We Take tells how one woman reckons with both a region's history and her own past. Through a lens ranging from intimate to the widely human through moments painful and darkly comic Fentress casts a penetrating light on what it means to be a white southern woman today Schedule of Classes University of California, San Diego, 1987 Djibouti International Monetary, 2024-06-04 Selected Issues Reculturing Museums Doris B.
