Abstract

Unaffiliated investment vehicles (i.e., trusts) are subject to all capital gains tax consequences relating to the sale of assets, and may also be subject to estate tax. The estate tax consequences of the sale of assets to an unaffiliated investment vehicle are discussed below.

• Student payment within 100-mile radius and accompanying coverage. But the insurance policy with the school provided that the passengers were paying what would have been an out-of-pocket rate (which is far less) if a driver who had suffered the accident, driving solo, had a driver's license suspended as part of a criminal or civil conviction. So, all of these facts were before the jury. The jury returned a verdict.

It is important to identify which job segments represent the "bright-line" during the implementation of the new technology, as these segments will be the most likely to cause the most problems. It is also the potential source of communication and coordination problems. It is important to have the clear communication.

These three areas were selected for funding to complement the research that the other two groups were conducting. The funding was intended to be used to support the work of the groups, and the results of the research were to be used to inform the development of the groups' work.
