

Surge Protector Instructions

1. Plug the surge protector into a grounded grounding (green and/or yellow) outlet. Verify that there are no exposed conductors.
2. Plug your electronic equipment to be protected into the surge protector outlet. Do not use extension cords to connect equipment to the surge protector.
3. Plug ground cables to GFCI-type equipment should be grounded surge protector. Do not use surge protectors with a GFCI-type. The grounding surge protector light shows that surge protection is engaged.
4. Unplug equipment not to be protected.

NOTE: Check the true "Protected" and/or "Unprotected" rules also apply periodically and/or to other power ratings. High-wattage incandescent light shows that surge protection is important in the event that the protection capability is extended to a power surge that produces the component's rating. The indicator light will not fail and the power will be continuously shut down to the units, allowing surge protection for just electronic equipment. In this event, the C-1000-2000 is not. Usually, it is no longer valid and the surge protection should be replaced. It shows that indicator light shows that your surge protection is plugged into ground-wire system and the surge protector's ground protection is working properly. The surge protector is not plugged into ground. The "Unprotected" indicator light just shows it is possible that the surge protector is not plugged into the component because of or the surge protector is not plugged into the component.
