Literary and Cultural Representations of the Hinterlands Ewa Kęłowska-Ławniczak, Dominika Ferens, Katarzyna Nowak-McNeice, Marcin Tereszewski, 2023-12-22 This interdisciplinary collection explores the diverse relationships between the frequently ignored and inherently ambiguous hinterlands and their manifestations in literature and culture Moving away from perspectives that emphasize the marginality of hinterlands and present them as devoid of agency and cultural currency this collection assembles a series of original essays using various modes of engagement to reconceptualize hinterlands and highlight their semiotic complexity Apart from providing a reassessment of hinterlands in terms of their geocultural significance this book also explores hinterlands through such concepts as nostalgia heterotopia identity formation habitation and cognitive mapping with reference to a wide geographical field Literary and filmic revisions of familiar hinterlands such as the Australian outback Alberta prairie and Arizona desert are juxtaposed in this volume with representations of such little known European hinterlands as Lower Silesia and Ukraine and the complicated political dimension of First World War internment camps is investigated with regard to Kapuskasing Ontario Rural China and the Sussex Downs are examined here as writers retreats Inner city hinterlands in Haiti India Morocco and urban New Jersey take on new meaning when contrasted with the vast hinterlands of megacities like Johannesburg and Los Angeles The spectrum of diverse approaches to hinterlands helps to reinforce their multilayered and multivocal nature as spaces that defy clear categorization

Constructing the Stable State Kathleen H. Hawk, 2002-08-30 The United States and the international community intervened in a number of internal conflicts throughout the 1990s generally justifying their actions on humanitarian grounds In most cases the external military intervention largely halted the fighting and allowed humanitarian assistance to be distributed However as Hawk makes clear simply halting the fighting has not allowed these countries to create stable governments and harmonious societies This study is based on the premise that if external actors foreign governments international organizations and private groups can not figure out how to lay a foundation for a stable longer term peace there will be decreasing support for international intervention and peacekeeping peacebuilding missions in the future Although external actors have undertaken many activities in the aftermath of a military intervention in an attempt to consolidate peace sufficient attention has not been paid to re constructing the state as a capable effective and legitimate entity While re constructing the state is only a portion of what needs to be done to bring about a stable long term peace it provides a necessary foundation upon which to structure the other activities Through her examination of external actions in Somalia Bosnia and Kosovo Hawk draws 23 lessons nine of which are applicable to interventions in general and the remaining 14 specific to statebuilding efforts This study will be of particular interest to scholars students and policymakers involved with conflict resolution and international relations

The New Tripoli and what I Saw in the Hinterland Ethel Braun, 1914 Port-Cities and their Hinterlands Robert Lee, Paul McNamara, 2022-03-14 This interdisciplinary book brings together eleven original contributions by scholars in the United Kingdom continental Europe America and Japan which represent innovative and important research on the relationship between cities and their hinterlands They discuss the factors which determined the changing nature of port hinterland relations in particular and highlight the ways in which port cities have interacted and intersected with their different hinterlands as a result of both in and out migration cultural exchange and the wider flow of goods services and information Historically maritime commerce was a powerful driving force behind urbanisation and by 1850 seaports accounted for a significant proportion of the world's great cities Ports acted as nodal points for the flow of population and the dissemination of goods and services but their role as growth poles also affected the economic transformation of both their hinterlands and forelands In fact most ports irrespective of their size had a series of overlapping hinterlands whose shifting importance reflected changes in trading relations political frameworks migration patterns family networks and cultural exchange Urban historians have been criticised for being concerned primarily with self contained processes which operate within the boundaries of individual towns and cities and as a result the key relationships between cities and their hinterlands have often been neglected The chapters in this work focus primarily on the determinants of port hinterland linkages and analyse these as distinct but interrelated fields of interaction Marking a significant contribution to the literature in this field Port Cities and their Hinterlands provides essential reading for students and scholars of the history of economics
