Regional Strategy and Action Plan for Forest and Landscape Restoration in Asia-Pacific Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2018-01-31 Degradation of forests can have severe negative local impacts and far reaching consequences including soil erosion loss of biodiversity greenhouse gas emissions dust storms diminished livelihood opportunities and reduced yields of forest products and services Reversing the adverse conditions requires urgent and scaled up action through scientific and holistic landscape level restoration approaches balancing both socio economic and environmental goals and the diverse needs of various sectors and stakeholders in the landscape The forest and landscape restoration FLR approach has gained momentum in recent years The concept is based on the recognition that trees and forests comprise critical components of rural landscapes and that diversification at landscape levels can enhance ecological and socio economic resilience while accommodating different site conditions and land management goals Given the increasing challenge of mitigating and adapting to climate change and vast expanses of degraded landscapes with decreased capacity to provide essential forest products and services we are seeing increased political interest and commitment to enhance forest cover and functions and to FLR at both international and national levels With this background the Food and Agriculture Organization Regional Office for Asia and the Pacific FAO RAP initiated an effort to develop a strategy and action plan for forest and landscape restoration in the region
