

How Does Phototropism Work?

By looking at some experiments that scientists have done in the past, we can learn more about how phototropism works – and we will see some examples of control experiments which have been cleverly designed to answer particular questions.

Here is an experiment by Charles Darwin with his son Francis in 1880, using a type of plant called canary grass:

Just from the diagram, can you work out what question they might have been trying to answer? (No one knew about auxins yet, by the way. They only knew that plants respond to light – as humans must have noticed for thousands of years.)

And can you work out what their conclusion was?

(Challenge) Can you explain why they chose these five different ways to treat the plant? (One way to answer this question would be to explain what each of the five results told them.)
