Agriculture in East Africa Takashi Yamano, Keijiro Otsuka, Frank Place, 2011-05-06 Emerging Development of Agriculture in East Africa offers case studies that find promise in many new innovations Farmers in Uganda have quickly learned the management of NERICA rice a new upland rice variety which is being disseminated in a limited way in the region Also in Uganda farmers living in more remote areas have improved access to markets due to the expansion of mobile phones In Kenya improved milk marketing systems have increased efficiency and led to tangible increases in the adoption of dairy production technologies And the adoption of intensive dairy production systems in Kenya and Uganda are providing significant amounts of manure and positively impacting yields of maize and banana Emerging Development of Agriculture in East Africa Takashi Yamano, Professor of Applied Economics and Law Keijiro Otsuka, Dr Frank Place, 2011-05-31 Based on a study of 2 400 households in three countries Kenya Uganda and Ethiopia this book provides unprecedented insight into how agricultural productivity can be improved It covers recent successful innovations and ways to overcome continued obstacles Agricultural Development in Asia and Africa Jonna P. Estudillo, Yoko Kijima, Tetsushi

Sonobe, 2022-12-01 This Open Access book explores the multifaceted nature of agricultural and rural development in Asia and examines the extent to which the Asian experience is being replicated in contemporary Africa This volume compiles the works of top scholars who provided analyses and evidences from household level surveys collected for many years in several parts of Asia and Africa The most important finding presented in this book is that African agricultural development has evolved following the pathways of Asian agricultural development The common pathways are borrowed technology from abroad and adaptive research in rice farming secured property rights on natural resources adoption of ICTs investments in human capital including training and launching of the high value agriculture In both continents agricultural development started in the crop sector which had a strong tendency to induce the dynamic development of other sectors in rural areas

The Oxford Handbook of Africa and Economics Célestin Monga, Justin Yifu Lin, 2015-07-02 A popular myth about the travails of Africa holds that the continent's long history of poor economic performance reflects the inability of its leaders and policymakers to fulfill the long list of preconditions to be met before sustained growth can be achieved These conditions are said to vary from the necessary quantity and quality of physical and human capital to the appropriate institutions and business environments While intellectually charming and often elegantly formulated that conventional wisdom is actually contradicted by historical evidence and common sense It also suggests a form of intellectual mimicry that posits a unique path to prosperity for all countries regardless of their level of development and economic structure In fact the argument underlining that reasoning is tautological and the policy prescriptions derived from it are fatally teleological low income countries are by definition those where such ingredients are missing None of today s high income countries started its growth process with the required and complete list of growth ingredients Unless one truly believes that the continent of Africa and most developing countries are ruled predominantly if not exclusively by plutocrats with a high propensity for sadomasochism the conventional view must be re examined debated and questioned This volume the second of the Oxford Handbook of Africa and Economics reassesses the economic policies and practices observed across the continent since independence It offers a collection of analyses by some of the leading economists and development thinkers of our time and reflects a wide range of perspectives and viewpoints Africa s emergence as a potential economic powerhouse in the years and decades ahead amply justifies the scope and ambition of the book Africa's Geography Benjamin

Ofori-Amoah,2019-04-30 Africa s Geography presents a comprehensive exploration of the world s second largest and most culturally diverse continent Author Benjamin Ofori Amoah challenges common misconceptions and misrepresentations of Africa from a geographical perspective harnessing the power of modern geographic mapping technology to explore this unique continent This text provides thorough coverage of the historical cultural economic and political forces that continue to shape Africa applying geographic context to relevant past and contemporary issues Coverage of economic development climate and biogeography transportation and communication manufacturing and commerce and mining and agriculture provides foundational knowledge of this vast and complex continent Ideally suited for multiple areas of classroom study this text offers an effective and flexible pedagogical framework Coverage of the entirety of Africa enables students to develop a cohesive portrait of the continent as a whole and identify the dynamism of its nations cultures and economies Engaging and accessible narrative strengthens comprehension while examples of historical and contemporary events increase student interest Innovative and unique Africa s Geography is an essential resource for cross disciplinary investigation of this fascinating part of the world In Pursuit of an African Green Revolution Keiji Otsuka,Donald F. Larson,2015-11-24

This book explores recent experiences in the effort to bring about a Green Revolution in Sub Saharan Africa SSA The chapters focus on rice and maize which are promising and strategic smallholder crops Significantly we find that an African Rice Revolution has already begun in many irrigated areas using Asian type modern varieties chemical fertilizer and improved management practices Further we find that the same technological package significantly increases the productivity and profitability of rice farming in rainfed areas as well We also find evidence that that management training when done well can boost productivity on smallholder farms This suggests that African governments can accelerate the pace of Africa's Rice Revolution by strengthening extension capacity The story for maize is wholly different where most farmers use local varieties apply little chemical fertilizer and obtain very low yields However in the highly populated highlands of Kenya a number of farmers have adopted high yielding hybrid maize varieties and chemical fertilizer as was the case in the Asian Green Revolution apply manure produced by stall fed cows as was the case during the British Agricultural Revolution and keep improved cows or cross breeds from European cows and local stock as was the case of the Indian White Revolution We conclude that while rice in Africa has benefited from an Asian Green Revolution strategy that emphasizes modern seeds inputs and focused knowledge transfers the success of Africa's Maize Revolution will require a different system approach based on hybrid maize chemical and organic fertilizers and stall fed cross bred cows

An African Green Revolution

Keijiro Otsuka, Donald F. Larson, 2012-12-22 This volume explores the usefulness of the Asian model of agricultural development for Africa where even before the recent world food crisis half the population lived on less than one dollar a day and a staggering one in three people and one third of all children were undernourished Africa has abundant natural resources agriculture provides most of its jobs a third of national income and a larger portion of total export earnings However the levels of land and labor productivity rank among the worst in the world The book explains Africa's productivity gap and proposes ways to close it by examining recent experience in Africa and by drawing on lessons from Asia Africa's Emerging Maize Revolution Derek Byerlee, Carl K. Eicher, 1997 Intended for policymakers and scholars the 15 contributions in this volume are divided into two sections the first provides six country case studies of the evolving maize economies of Zimbabwe Zambia Malawi Kenya Ghana and Nigeria The second part synthesizes major technological institutional and policy issues with chapters on research and extension soil fertility seed and fertilizer delivery systems and marketing and price policy Paper edition 754 0 29 95 Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Sustaining Global Food

Security Robert Zeigler, 2019-10-09 Population growth alone dictates that global food supplies must increase by over 50% in coming decades Advances in technology offer an array of opportunities to meet this demand but history shows that these can be fully realised only within an enabling policy environment Sustaining Global Food Security makes a compelling case that recent technological breakthroughs can move the planet towards a secure and sustainable food supply only if new policies are designed that allow their full expression Bob Zeigler has brought together a distinguished set of scientists and policy analysts to produce well referenced chapters exploring international policies on genetic resources molecular genetics genetic engineering crop breeding and protection remote sensing the changing landscape of agricultural policies in the world's largest countries and trade Those entering the agricultural sciences and those who aspire to influence public policy during their careers will benefit from the insights of this unique set of experiences and perspectives

State Building and Development Keijiro Otsuka, Takashi Shiraishi, 2014-02-03 Why does a huge income gap still exist between developed and developing countries Plausible causes on the surface may be the difference in technology the quality of human resources and economic institutions but on the deeper level the gap reflects the success and failure of state building which is vital for economic development This book provides cutting edge knowledge on state building economic development and democratization based on case studies of Japan ASEAN South Asia and selected countries in sub Saharan Africa The book examines the interaction between land policies and the state building in sub Saharan Africa It also pays special attention to corruption which affects the relationship between the state and the development and decentralization which exerts influences on the contentious politics Finally the book also sheds new light on the failure and success of industrial policies based on a literature review and a case study of the rapidly growing pharmaceutical industry in Bangladesh This book is one of the few studies which squarely addresses state building and economic development and will be of use to those interested in this subject development practitioners and policymakers in developing countries

East Africa, a New Dominion Archibald Church, 1928 ERS, 1961 The Role of Smallholder Farms in Food and Nutrition Security Sergio Gomez y Paloma, Laura Riesgo, Kamel Louhichi, 2020-05-14 This open access book discusses the current role of smallholders in connection with food security and poverty reduction in developing countries It addresses the opportunities they enjoy and the constraints they face by analysing the availability access to and utilization of production factors Due to the relevance of smallholder farms enhancing their production capacities and economic and social resilience could produce positive impacts on food security and nutrition at a number of levels In addition to the role of small farmers as food suppliers the book considers their role as consumers and their level of nutrition security It investigates the link between agriculture and nutrition in order to better understand how agriculture affects human health and dietary patterns Given the importance of smallholdings strategies to increase their productivity are essential to improving food and nutrition security as well as food diversity

Rural Households in Emerging Societies Margaret Haswell, Diana Hunt, 2020-12-17 The constantly changing circumstances of rural life in sub Saharan Africa have brought with them both successes and failures The essays in this volume examine the various pressures and inducements to changing resource use patterns faced by rural households and explore the two way causal relationship between technology and technological change on the one hand and other key elements of rural change demographic environmental economic social and political on the other Contemporary approaches to the introduction of technical innovations are examined and new approaches are proposed Through case studies of particular communities the wide ranging impacts of past experiences are assessed and the causes and consequences of indigenous initiatives are explored

Cities and agricultural transformation in Africa Vandecasteele, Joachim, Tamru,

Seneshaw,Minten, Bart,Swinnen, Johan,2016-07-01 Due to the rapid growth of cities in Africa many more farmers are now living in rural hinterlands in relatively close proximity to cities where many provide food to urban residents However empirical evidence on how urbanization affects these farmers is scarce To fill this gap this paper explores the relationship between proximity to a city and the production behavior of rural staple crop producers In particular we analyze data from teff producing farmers in major producing areas around Addis Ababa the Ethiopian capital We find that farmers located closer to Addis Ababa face higher wages and land rental prices and because they receive higher teff prices they have better incentives to intensify production Moreover we observe that modern input use land and labor productivity and profitability in teff production improve with urban proximity This urban proximity has a strong and significant effect on these aspects of teff production possibly related to the use of more formal factor markets lower transaction costs in crop production and marketing and better access to information In contrast we do not find a strong and positive relationship between rural population density increases and agricultural transformation increased population density seems to lead to immiserizing effects in these settings Our results show that urban proximity should be considered as an important determinant of the process of agricultural intensification and transformation in developing countries

Selected Issues in Agricultural Policy Analysis with Special Reference to East Africa Tony Akaki,2003-03-29 This book highlights some of the main areas of debate around the subject of agricultural policy in Eastern Africa Its major aim is to introduce the reader to different issues of economic and social change arising from agricultural development and to provide an understanding of some of the major difficulties faced by African countries in pursuing an agricultural policy Agricultural policy is analyzed by creating a contextual framework in light of the major policy documents of the World Bank to formulate an understanding of the developmental issues pertaining to agriculture This is not meant to be a comprehensive study of agricultural policy but a mode of analysis in which broad sector agricultural policies can be viewed as a potentially active agent of social change and development

A New History of Tanzania Kimambo, Isaria N.,Maddox, Gregory H.,2019-04-15 Tanzania the land and the people have been subject of a great deal of historical research but there remains no readily accessible and concise history of the country The aim of this volume is to fill that void A New History of Tanzania takes its name from a lecture series introduced at the University of Dar es Salaam by Professor Isaria Kimambo in 2002 Prior to that a book titled A History of Tanzania had been published in 1969 by East African Publishing House in Nairobi for the Tanzania Historical Association That book is currently out of print and this is not a reprint In this book Prof Kimambo has been joined by two other colleagues Prof Gregory H Maddox of Texas Southern University Houston USA and Salvatory S Nyanto a Tanzanian Lecturer at the University of Dar es Salaam and a Ph D candidate at the University of Iowa USA together they have produced an outline history of Tanzania that covers all important aspects from antiquity to the present that is different from and richer than its predecessor Sources from the fields of archaeology anthropology biology genetics and oral tradition have been used to produce this excellent book A New History of Tanzania is a timely contribution to academic requirements for teaching and learning Tanzania s history It is also a possible exemplar to the writing of other countries histories departing as it does from the traditional historiography that is influenced by colonial and postcolonial apologists of nefarious external influences on Africa s history It will also interest other Tanzanians and visitors to Tanzania who are interested in understanding the country from when it was a territory with more than one hundred and twenty ethnic groups to a nation with an unmistakable identity as it marches forward
