Anthropology's Interrogation of Philosophy from the Eighteenth to the Twentieth Century Jerome Fanning Marsden Carroll, 2017-12-06 Anthropology's Interrogation of Philosophy from the Eighteenth to the Twentieth Century presents and discusses key aspects of the German tradition of philosophical anthropology from the eighteenth to the twentieth century centering on the concept of anthropology as a study of the whole concrete man Heinrich Weber 1810 Philosophical anthropology appears during the last decades of the eighteenth century in the often practically oriented writings of men such as Ernst Platner Karl Wezel and Johann Herder and is then taken up in the twentieth century by thinkers including Max Scheler Helmut Plessner Arnold Gehlen and Hans Blumenberg In presenting this tradition the book serves two primary purposes Firstly it introduces English readers in a coherent manner to key aspects of a two hundred year tradition in German thought Secondly the book analyzes in an unprecedented manner even in German scholarship the connections between the philosophical debates associated with anthropology at the end of the eighteenth century and ongoing philosophical issues in the twentieth century Specifically author Jerome Carroll argues that late eighteenth century anthropology diverges pointedly from traditional foundational approaches to philosophy for instance rejecting philosophy's quest for absolute foundations for knowledge or a priori categories and turning to a more descriptive account of man's being in the world Notably by drawing on the epistemological ontological and methodological aspects and implications of anthropological holism this book reads the philosophical significance of classical twentieth century anthropology through the lens of eighteenth century writings on anthropology

Phenomenal Blackness Mark Christian Thompson, 2022-01-21 This unorthodox account of 1960s Black thought rigorously details the field's debts to German critical theory and explores a forgotten tradition of Black singularity Phenomenal Blackness examines the changing interdisciplinary investments of key mid century Black writers and thinkers including the growing interest in German philosophy and critical theory Mark Christian Thompson analyzes this shift in intellectual focus across the post war decades placing Black Power thought in a philosophical context Prior to the 1960s sociologically oriented thinkers such as W E B Du Bois had understood Blackness as a singular set of socio historical characteristics In contrast writers such as Amiri Baraka James Baldwin Angela Y Davis Eldridge Cleaver and Malcolm X were drawn to notions of an African essence an ontology of Black being With these perspectives literary language came to be seen as the primary social expression of Blackness For this new way of thinking the works of philosophers such as Adorno Habermas and Marcuse were a vital resource allowing for continued cultural materialist analysis while accommodating the hermeneutical aspects of Black religious thought Thompson argues that these efforts to reimagine Black singularity led to a phenomenological understanding of Blackness a Black aesthetic dimension wherein aspirational models for Black liberation might emerge

A Shrinking Island Joshua Esty, 2009-01-10 This book describes a major literary culture caught in the act of becoming minor In 1939 Virginia Woolf wrote in her diary Civilisation has shrunk Her words captured not only the onset of World War II but also a longer term reversal of national fortune The first comprehensive account of modernism and imperialism in England A Shrinking Island tracks the joint eclipse of modernist aesthetics and British power from the literary experiments of the 1930s through the rise of cultural studies in the 1950s Jed Esty explores the effects of declining empire on modernist form and on the very meaning of Englishness He ranges from canonical figures T S Eliot and Virginia Woolf to influential midcentury intellectuals J M Keynes and J R R Tolkien from cultural studies pioneers Raymond Williams and E P Thompson to postwar migrant writers George Lamming and Doris Lessing Focusing on writing that converts the potential energy of the contracting British state into the language of insular integrity he argues that an anthropological ethos of cultural holism came home to roost in late imperial England Esty's interpretation challenges popular myths about the death of English literature It portrays the survivors of the modernist generation not as aesthetic dinosaurs but as participants in the transition from empire to welfare state from metropolitan art to national culture Mixing literary criticism with postcolonial theory his account of London modernism's end stages and after lives provides a fresh take on major works while redrawing the lines between modernism and postmodernism
