Ethiopian children in early grades were found to be significantly nonreaders after 2–3 years of schooling regardless of linguistic variation. This is mainly attributed to the way children are taught basic literacy skills, which is attributed to teacher preparation and training. This research aimed to examine Ethiopian early grade teachers' preparedness to teach basic reading skills. Five schools were randomly selected out of 44 public primary schools in the research site. Among 40 teachers of English in the selected schools, 32 teachers were willing to take knowledge assessment test and fill in the questionnaire. Two of knowledge test papers and two pieces of questionnaire were rejected because the responses were incomplete. The data were gathered from ($n = 30$) randomly selected primary schools English teachers by using a questionnaire and knowledge assessment test. Data analysis was done using Statistical Package for Social Sciences (SPSS Version 25.0). Descriptive statistics were calculated for the responses to knowledge test and questionnaire. Pearson's correlation was calculated for the relationship among teacher preparation coursework emphasis, practicum attention, and teachers' felt preparedness to teach basic reading after categorical data were transformed into scale. The results have shown that primary school English teacher preparation designated only certain lecture sessions of coursework and few of activities of practicum to teaching early reading. The average knowledge assessment test score of teachers was 43.4%; 21 (70%) of the teachers achieved below 50% while 9 (30%) of them achieved 50% and above. There is a statistically significant relationship among teacher preparation coursework emphasis, practicum attention, and teachers' felt preparedness to help Ethiopian children learn to read. It can be concluded from the results that teacher preparation both in its courses and practicum activities did not place due emphasis on teaching teachers to teach basic reading skills. Participant English teachers also had knowledge gap about early reading instruction. Thus, participant English teachers were not adequately prepared to teach early grade reading. Teacher preparation coursework emphasis, practicum attention, and teachers' felt preparedness to teach early grade reading have a strong positive relationship.

1. Introduction

Following the expansion of modern education in the twentieth century, Ethiopia's imperial regime was concerned with assigning enough teachers to the schools. Attempts had been made to see different options of obtaining teachers such as importing expatriate teachers from countries that had a good diplomatic relation with Ethiopia at that time (e.g., France, USA, and Great Britain) and the Coptic Church of Egypt [1]. Ethiopia's education system has undergone different reforms to its policies, programs, and strategies [1].

During Derg regime, the socialist regime that ruled Ethiopia from 1974 to 1991, completing grade 12 was the only requirement to join teacher preparation program. The worse, certain candidates were allowed to teach without any pedagogical preparation to address acute shortage of teachers [2]. Primary teacher preparation programs started to receive those who failed to join higher learning institutions to study other disciplines; as a result, instructional quality and the profession's reputation have deteriorated [1, 2].

After the downfall of Derg regime, a new education policy was formulated and upgraded teacher preparation institutes to diploma-level colleges and also added certain new
