Faith In Action Annual Report:

Faith in Action Richard L. Wood, 2002-09-15 Over the past fifteen years associations throughout the U S have organized citizens around issues of equality and social justice often through local churches But in contrast to President Bush s vision of faith based activism in which groups deliver social services to the needy these associations do something greater Drawing on institutions of faith they reshape public policies that neglect the disadvantaged To find out how this faith based form of community organizing succeeds Richard L Wood spent several years working with two local groups in Oakland California the faith based Pacific Institute for Community Organization and the race based Center for Third World Organizing Comparing their activist techniques and achievements Wood argues that the alternative cultures and strategies of these two groups give them radically different access to community ties and social capital Creative and insightful Faith in Action shows how community activism and religious organizations can help build a more just and democratic future for all Americans Faith in Action, Volume 1 Stan Chu Ilo, Nora K. Nonterah, Idara Otu, 2020-12-15 Essays from the Pan African Catholic Congress on Theology Society and Pastoral Life held at Bigard Memorial Seminary Enugu Nigeria from 5-8 December 2019 Faith and Action Roger Antonio Fortin, 2002 Based on extensive primary archival materials Faith and Action is a comprehensive history of the Catholic Archdiocese of Cincinnati over the past 175 years Fortin paints a picture of the Catholic Church s involvement in the city s development and contextualizes the changing values and programs of the Church in the region He characterizes the institution s history as one of both faith and action From the time of its founding to the present the way Catholics in the archdiocese of Cincinnati have viewed their relationship with the rest of society has changed with each major change in society In the beginning while espousing separation of church and state and religious liberty they wanted the Church to adapt to the new American situation In the mid nineteenth century Cincinnati Catholics dealt with a dominant Protestant culture and at times a hostile environment whereas a century later it had become much more a part of the American mainstream Throughout most of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries most Catholics saw themselves as outsiders During the past fifty years however Cincinnati Catholics like most of their counterparts in the United States have felt more confident and viewed themselves as very much a part of American society Publisher s description Social

Institutional Logics within Faith-Based Aid Nina G.

Kurlberg,2024-07-19 This book investigates what faith means in the actual day to day practice of faith based NGOs working in the development humanitarian and advocacy sectors Faith based organisations play an extremely prominent role in international aid and development operating within the same sphere as organisations without an explicit religious affiliation This book uses the case study of a UK based Christian faith based organisation to develop an analytic tool using institutional logics Through exploration of how various institutional logics are manifested and negotiated across organisational practice the book describes how the telos or objective of the corporate logic to sustain the organisation interacts with the telos of the religious logic namely to worship God The book demonstrates that since organisational practices must ultimately work to sustain the organisation at the organisational level faith is restricted to certain spaces and forms while at the individual level faith is dominant and active Bringing a fresh perspective to discussions of religion and development by highlighting how faith influences development at the organisational level this book will be an important read for researchers working on global development

Faith Seeking Action Gregory P. Leffel, 2007-06-01 In Faith Seeking Action author Gregory Leffel links a description of the church as a global movement with a description of contemporary social movements that are actively challenging today's societies such as the environmental global justice and identity movements Not surprisingly Christian communities and communities of social activists share much in common as they each work to enrich their societies It is natural then to ask what missionally concerned Christians may learn from social movements about the public role of their churches the connection of their beliefs to social change and the mobilization of their people It can also be asked how these often divided communities may find ways to collaborate around common actions rooted in such shared values as peace justice life and the integrity of the environment Building on growing interest in the field of missiology and its missional church concept Leffel has created a dialog between the church as a social actor and social movements Along with introducing movement theory to mission studies Leffel introduces a new way of addressing the issues involved in the church's engagement with society a concept he calls missio ecclesiology Of interest to those seeking vital ways to live out their faith in the world missiologists missional church leaders and street level workers alike this work fuels fresh thinking about the church's role in cultural and social change

Faith in Reading David Paul Nord, 2004-08-19 In the twenty first century mass media corporations are often seen as profit hungry money machines It was a different world in the early days of mass communication in America Faith in Reading tells the remarkable story of the noncommercial religious origins of our modern media culture In the early nineteenth century a few visionary entrepreneurs decided the time was right to reach everyone in America through the medium of print Though they were modern businessmen their publishing enterprises were not commercial businesses but nonprofit societies committed to the publication of traditional religious texts Drawing on organizational reports and archival sources David Paul Nord shows how the managers of Bible and religious tract societies made themselves into large scale manufacturers and distributors of print These organizations believed it was possible to place the same printed message into the hands of every man woman and child in America Employing modern printing technologies and business methods they were remarkably successful churning out millions of Bibles tracts religious books and periodicals They mounted massive campaigns to make books cheap and plentiful by turning them into modern mass produced consumer goods Nord demonstrates how religious publishers learned to work against the flow of ordinary commerce They believed that reading was too important to be left to the market revolution so they turned the market on its head seeking to deliver their product to everyone regardless of ability or even desire to buy

Wedding modern technology and national organization to a traditional faith in reading these publishing societies imagined and then invented mass media in America

Tearfund and the Quest for Faith-Based Development Dena Freeman, 2019-08-19 This book gives an in depth analysis of the role of faith in the work of Tearfund a leading evangelical relief and development NGO that works in over 50 countries worldwide The study traces the changing ways that faith has shaped and influenced Tearfund's work over the organisation's 50 year history It shows how Tearfund has consciously grappled with the role of faith in its work and has invested considerable time and energy in developing an intentionally faith based approach to relief and development that in several ways is quite different to the approaches of secular relief and development NGOs The book charts the different perspectives and possibilities that were not taken and the internal discussions about theology development practices and humanitarian standards that took place as Tearfund worked out for itself what it meant to be a faith based relief and development organisation There is a growing academic literature about religion and development as well as increasing interest from development ministries of many Northern governments in understanding the role of religion in development and the specific challenges and benefits involved in working with faith based organisations However there are very few studies of actual faith based organisations and no book length detailed studies showing how such an organisation operates in practice and how it integrates its faith into its work In documenting the story of Tearfund the book provides important insights into the practice and ethos of faith based organisations which will be of interest to other FBOs and to researchers of religion and development
