Gauteng Question Papers 2014:

Twenty Years of Education Transformation in Gauteng 1994 to 2014 Maringe, Felix, Prew, Martin, 2015-05-05 Twenty Years of Education Transformation in Gauteng 1994 to 2014 An Independent Review presents a collection of 15 important essays on different aspects of education in Gauteng since the advent of democracy in 1994. These essays talk to what a provincial education department does and how and why it does these things whether it be about policy resourcing or implementing projects. Each essay is written by one or more specialist in the relevant focus area. The book is written to be accessible to the general reader as well as being informative and an essential resource for the specialist reader. It sheds light on aspects of how a provincial department operates and why and with what consequences certain decisions have been made in education over the last 20 turbulent years both nationally and provincially. There has been no attempt to fit the book's chapters into a particular ideological or educational paradigm and as a result the reader will find differing views on various aspects of the Gauteng Department of Education's present and past. We leave the reader to decide to what extent the GDE has fulfilled its educational mandate over the last 20 years.

The GCRO Barometer 2014 Darlington Mushongera, 2015-04-24 The GCRO Barometer 2014 depicts developmental progress in the Gauteng City Region (GCR) in a single interactive graphic using 38 indicators across ten key sectors. It serves as a tracking and diagnostic tool to inform policy makers and the public on where development progress is being made and areas of concern. It also serves as a tool for benchmarking Gauteng against other South African provinces and similar sized city regions across the world. The GCRO Barometer 2014 is the first release and shows progress in 2012 against three base years: 2002, 2007, and 2011. Overall, the Barometer shows that the developmental outlook for Gauteng is positive with significant progress realised between 2002 and 2012 in nearly all sectors. For instance, the poverty rate has fallen dramatically since 2002 and access to basic services has improved. However, there are challenges in areas such as Social Cohesion, Governance, the Labour Market, and Sustainability. Sadly, people's perceptions of government as well as their unwillingness to participate in governance matters do not correspond to the achievements made by government during this period. This should be a cause for concern for policy makers in all spheres of government as it reflects dissatisfaction with the nature and quality of services being provided as well as the methods of provision. The Barometer also shows that the impact of government programmes is minimal over shorter time spans; change between 2002 and 2012 is considerable but change between 2011 and 2012 is insignificant. This is a cause for concern given the 5-year cycle of electoral terms for local government in South Africa. The Barometer's outcomes underscore the need for government to step up policy and programme monitoring with a view to achieving immediate and positive short-term impacts on communities.

Fostering Pedagogical Innovation Through Effective Instructional Design Khaldi, Mohamed, 2024-01-10 There have been seismic shifts recently occurring in the realm of education. There is an important transition from a focus on qualification to competence in the world of work and the need to equip educators with the skills and methodologies required to meet these changing demands has never been greater. The role of a teacher can no longer be a static practitioner but rather a dynamic decision maker ready to shape developing minds. Fostering Pedagogical Innovation Through Effective Instructional Design is an expansive research book that delves deep into the intricate art of teaching emphasizing that pedagogy is not a one size fits all endeavor. This scholarly work asserts that effective teaching is rooted in understanding context and a relentless commitment to refining one's instructional practices. The book introduces an array of critical parameters that educators must consider including content selection, learner needs, and the ever-evolving realm of information and communication technologies. It navigates the reader through the intricacies of andragogy, the theoretical foundations of didactics, and innovative pedagogical approaches, offering a comprehensive toolkit for educators striving to optimize their craft.

Acid Mine Drainage and its Governance in the Gauteng City-Region Kerry Bobbins, 2015-05-29

Acid mine drainage (AMD) has generated an enormous amount of media interest and public concern in the Gauteng City Region (GCR) over the last decade. However, it has been framed as a narrow technical concern with government action being directed towards securing the necessary engineering and processing solutions as quickly as possible to prevent, decant, and treat acid mine water to industrial standards. This has arguably limited the scope for full discussion and debate on the impacts of AMD, particularly for the environment, and this bears implications for how AMD has been managed in the GCR. Government's immediate short and long-term interventions to address AMD have been set out as a straight-forward solution, but over time more complex environmental concerns have emerged. Becoming more evident over the last few years is that one of the main impacts of AMD will be its effect on the overall water security in the Vaal River System (VRS) on which the GCR relies for its supply of potable water. Limits on water abstraction from the VRS, together with the increasing need to maintain the overall water quality in the system through dilution and treatment activities, means that AMD is beginning to manifest as a binding constraint on economic development and a burden on society, in particular via escalating costs for water consumers. Fiscal constraints are likely to see GCR residents and businesses pick up more and more of the costs associated with the treatment of AMD through the format of increased municipal tariffs. With final decisions on municipal tariffs now pending, the broader yet invisible impacts of AMD loom large. This means that the debate has moved far beyond the issue of predicted decant in each of the Witwatersrand's mining basins. Water security for the GCR and who will carry the costs associated with the long-term treatment of AMD have instead taken centre stage. This paper carefully updates the historical record on AMD since the publishing of a GCRO Provocation on the issue in 2010. In doing so, it argues that the way in which AMD has been governed raises a flag around how the political economy of an issue such as AMD should be understood, publicly debated, and managed. In particular, it suggests that the governance of an environmental challenge such as AMD is not only about finding a technical solution. The lack of platforms to ensure well-informed public deliberation, especially over such issues as who will pay and how, must be addressed to ensure more equitable and transparent decision making In light of the broader mine waste legacy inherited by the GCR and the strong likelihood of environmental contamination becoming more commonplace in the future these concerns are not only limited to AMD They will only grow in importance over time Commercial Law Reports 2014 ,2014-12-31 Commercial law judgments South Africa

Policing and Boundaries in a Violent Society Guy Lamb, 2022-01-31 This book explores how social and territorial boundaries have influenced the approaches and practices of the South Africa Police Service SAPS By means of a historical analysis of South Africa this book introduces a new concept police frontierism which illuminates the nature of the relationships between the police policing and boundaries and can potentially be used for future case study research Drawing on a wealth of research this book examines how social and territorial boundaries strongly influenced police practices and behaviour in South Africa and how social delineations amplify and distort existing police prejudices against those communities on the other side of the boundary Focusing on cases of high density police operations public order policing and the recent policing of the COVID 19 lockdown this book argues that poor economic conditions combined with an increased militarisation of the SAPS and a decline in public trust in the police will result in boundaries continuing to fundamentally inform police work in South Africa This book will be of interest to scholars and students interested in policing in post colonial societies characterised by high levels of violence as well as police work and police militarization We Want What's Ours Bernadette Atuahene,2014 Millions of people all over the world have been displaced from their homes and property Dispossessed individuals and communities often lose more than the physical structures they live in and their material belongings they are also denied their dignity These are dignity takings and land dispossessions occurring in South Africa during colonialism and apartheid are quintessential examples There have been numerous examples of dignity takings throughout the world but South Africa stands apart because of its unique remedial efforts The nation has attempted to move beyond the more common step of providing reparations compensation for physical losses to instead facilitating dignity restoration which is a comprehensive remedy that seeks to restore property while also confronting the underlying dehumanization infantilization and political exclusion that enabled the injustice Dignity restoration is the fusion of reparations with restorative justice In We Want What's Ours Bernadette Atuahenes detailed research and interviews with over one hundred and fifty South Africans who participated in the nations land restitution program provide a snapshot of South Africas successes and failures in achieving dignity restoration We Want What's Ours is globally relevant because dignity takings have happened all around the world and throughout history the Nazi confiscation of property from Jews during World War II the Hutu taking of property from Tutsis during the Rwandan genocide the widespread commandeering of native peoples property across the globe and Saddam Husseins seizing of property from the Kurds and others in Iraq are but a few examples When people are deprived of their property and dignity in years to come the lessons learned in South Africa can help governments policy makers scholars and international institutions make the transition from reparations to the more robust project of dignity restoration Land-Use Management to Support Sustainable Settlements in South Africa Verna Nel,Stuart Paul Denoon-Stevens,2023-10-24 This book provides a theoretical and practical foundation needed to change the practice of land use management in Southern Africa It presents an overview of alternative land use management system for South African municipalities that is economically socially and environmentally more sustainable than many of the land use schemes in effect at present Land use management is a component of spatial governance that controls the nature and extent of development to prevent harmful impacts on people and the environment As the current system with its colonial modernist planning and regulatory mechanisms were never designed to deal with rapid change urbanisation and informality a different form of land development and land use management is necessary This timely book reflects the culmination of many years of practical experience and research into various aspects of land use management by the authors and studies undertaken by their master s and doctoral students The book goes beyond an analysis of the problems and suggests concrete proposals that can be applied throughout Southern Africa based on a rural to urban transect This book is directed to a broad range of readers interested in spatial planning and land use management It will be of interest to those in the fields of geography urban studies urban design planning and architecture
