your job in order to make more strategic contributions Diversify your network so that you connect to and learn from a bigger range of stakeholders Become more playful with your self concept allowing your familiar and possibly outdated leadership style to evolve Ibarra turns the usual think first and then act philosophy on its head by arguing that doing these three things will help you learn through action and will increase what she calls your oversight the valuable external perspective you gain from direct experiences and experimentation As opposed to insight oversight will then help change the way you think as a leader about what kind of work is important how you should invest your time why and which relationships matter in informing and supporting your leadership and ultimately who you want to become Packed with self assessments and practical advice to help define your most pressing leadership challenges this book will help you devise a plan of action to become a better leader and move your career to the next level It s time to learn by doing Leading a Digital School Mal Lee, Michael Francis Gaffney, 2008 This important new book informs educational leaders about current developments in the use of digital technologies and presents a number of case studies demonstrating their value and complexity It encourages leaders to engage in the process of successful change for their own school community by providing guidelines and advice drawn from emerging research Leading a Digital School is a rich source of information and advice about joining the new education revolution It shows clearly and concisely how schools can integrate digital technologies creatively and wisely in order to enliven teaching and support student learning

Pivot, Disrupt, Transform Marcia Daszko, 2018-10-02 When the status quo no longer works the contrarian perspective reigns In this innovative business how to leadership expert Marcia Daszko draws on her expertise to guide leaders at any level through a three step process to radically improve their businesses first recognize and stop outmoded ways of thinking that fail to move the business forward like focusing on the bottom line conducting performance appraisals and searching for best practices second start taking steps to introduce new innovative ways of thinking and contrarian practices such as developing leaders with the capacity to effect change creating an interconnected team and seeking knowledge through questions and finally transform your company into a more resilient adaptive and united organization Recent studies have reported that 90% of start ups will fail In Silicon Valley alone this means that more than 5 400 of the current 6 000 startups will flounder and disappear But risky and cash strapped start ups are not the only corporate fatalities More than 60% of the original Fortune 500 corporations no longer exist Given these statistics how can organizational leaders and their employees beat the odds and survive The only solution is to question the usual business practices re think how to lead and inspire challenge the accepted beliefs and toss out the failures to accelerate business growth and profitability Using Marcia s three part stop start transform method readers will learn to pursue significant untapped opportunities achieve their organization s competitive edge and pivot disrupt and adapt to unexpected levels of success

Leading the 21st-Century Academic Library Bradford Lee Eden, 2015-03-02 Libraries of all types have undergone significant developments in the last few decades The rate of change in the academic library a presence for decades now has been increasing in the first decade of this century. It is no exaggeration to claim that it is undergoing a top to bottom redefinition. Cataloging and reference remain central to its new role and the circulation of books is still high though declining. Among the changes is the architecture of the library when new libraries replace old or where renovation is occurring the role of technology at every stage and in every library application the management of serials selection shelving and budgeting and in a gradual but irrevocable move to digital forms altered allocation of resources including larger portions of the budget diverted to preservation not only of aging books a theme in the latter part of the last century but of digital files cultural historical personal. In brief the academic library is dramatically different today than it was only ten years ago. And with it the profession of the academic librarian is also undergoing significant changes. Managing digital resources in all its forms from telecommunications to storage and access devices is central to its new roles. Creating curating and preserving digital information is also key to the new librarianship. And what about services to its clients. Here also we see dramatic change particularly but not exclusively with guiding library users in the effective use of networked knowledge. Information literacy is a key term and skill in using the new tools of digital literacy reading and writing searching and extracting and the new technologies that drive social networking the iPhone iPad and iPod and its many imitators. We can't expect the redefined academic library to assume its final shape any time soon if ever but the transformation is well underway. This series Creating the 21st Century Academic Library will explore this topic from a number of different perspectives. Volume 1 Visionary Leadership and Futures will begin the discussion by examining some of the new roles and directions academic libraries are taking. Great Leaders Equal Great Schools Autumn Cypress, 2013-01-01.
