analysis

Report highlights

Automating the engineering challenge today entails designing – making it harder to evaluate the impact of different design alternatives.

When the need to virtualize the product development lifecycle is taken into account, the need for a multi-physics simulation platform is clear.

Simulation has become an essential tool for product development, enabling the design and delivery of products that are more efficient, more reliable, and more cost-effective.

Implementing a multi-physics simulation platform is a complex task, requiring a deep understanding of the product development process and the ability to integrate multiple simulation tools.

As the product development lifecycle becomes more complex, the need for a multi-physics simulation platform is growing. This report provides a comprehensive overview of the challenges and opportunities associated with implementing a multi-physics simulation platform, and offers a range of recommendations for success.
