education in a manner that ensures students are successful in their studies is a major issue globally and a significant research focus within higher education studies and higher education policy. Similarly, the challenge of underpreparedness of students entering higher education has become increasingly pertinent as universities in both developed and developing countries struggle to improve their throughput rates in a context in which schooling no longer seems to provide sufficient preparation for entering university. In this book, Merridy Wilson Strydom applies the capabilities approach to better understand university access and participation and draws on a rich case study from South Africa to critically and innovatively explore the complex and contradictory terrain of access with success. The book integrates quantitative and qualitative research with theory and practical application to provide a new framework for considering and improving the transition from school to university. University Access and Success will appeal to academics and researchers in the field of higher education internationally. The book also contributes to the growing body of international and comparative scholarship on the capabilities approach in higher education and will therefore be of value to higher education practitioners such as those working in the promotion of teaching and learning, higher education quality assurance, institutional research, and student affairs.

Language Assessment Across Cultures Jarosław Krajka, 2025-07-14. The book makes a comprehensive coverage of cross-cultural aspects of language assessment, evaluating language tests, naturalization and secondary school exit examinations, and European Language Portfolios from quantitative and qualitative perspectives. Detailed discussion of Computer Assisted Language Testing with such aspects as language corpora, mobile apps, Computer Adaptive Tests, and Learning Management Systems is framed in the cultural context. The researcher evaluates opportunities of Generative Artificial Intelligence in designing and adapting culturally sensitive tests, examining culturally sensitive training of Language Assessment Literacy of language teachers in technology-rich contexts. The book ends with guidelines and recommendations for language test designers and teachers.

Close to Home Pamela Cook, 2015-06-30. A captivating story that shows the only thing harder than letting go is moving on. Orphaned at 13, Charlie Anderson has been on her own for a while. Not that she minds; she has her work as a vet, her friends, and most days that is enough. But then she is sent to a small town on the south coast of NSW to investigate a possible outbreak of the deadly Hendra virus. Travelling back, she will find herself torn between the haunting memories of her past and her dedication to the job. Returning to Naringup means coming face to face with the members of what is left of her dysfunctional family: her cousin Emma, who begged Charlie not to leave all those years ago, and Hazel, her mother's sister who allowed her abusive husband to spend all of Charlie's inheritance. When the local vet dies and more horses are taken ill, Charlie is caught in the centre of a professional and a personal crisis. Working with local Park Ranger Joel Drummond, Charlie finds herself drawn not only to Joel but to his eccentric mother, siblings, and sister-in-law. Through them, she begins to understand what it means to be part of a family. As the panic around Hendra increases and Emma's husband starts to make threats, tensions in the country town rise. While trying to remain professionally distant,

Charlie must decide whether to run away from her family or step up and allow them back in But can she reconcile with the past and find herself a new future in the town she left long ago This is smart writing from Pamela Cook who manages to tug at the heart strings while keeping the brain fully engaged Book Birdy A strong heroine cheeky hero a close knit country community and a hint of danger and suspense makes Close to Home an engaging and easy read I d recommend it Australian Bookshelf

The Laws of Scientific Change Hakob Barseghyan,2015-08-17 This book systematically creates a general descriptive theory of scientific change that explains the mechanics of changes in both scientific theories and the methods of their assessment It was once believed that while scientific theories change through time their change itself is governed by a fixed method of science Nowadays we know that there is no such thing as an unchangeable method of science the criteria employed by scientists in theory evaluation also change through time But if that is so how and why do theories and methods change Are there any general laws that govern this process or is the choice of theories and methods completely arbitrary and random Contrary to the widespread opinion the book argues that scientific change is indeed a law governed process and that there can be a general descriptive theory of scientific change It does so by first presenting meta theoretical issues divided into chapters on the scope possibility and assessment of theory of scientific change It then builds a theory about the general laws that govern the process of scientific change and goes into detail about the axioms and theorems of the theory

Shifting the Boundaries Carolyn Rasmussen,2018-07-30 The University of Melbourne was already over 110 years old when this history begins The second oldest university in Australia it has been graced with a number of histories written by eminent historians Each of these histories has documented the University s evolution and diversification from the perspective of their time Shifting the Boundaries The University of Melbourne 1975 2015 continues that story but the period covered is entirely within living memory It pauses at ten year intervals the first at 1975 to look back at the previous decade We are invited to enter the University of Melbourne as a living institution and to watch it as it responds to changing expectations of students staff and community to shifting policy frameworks and to an evolving economic and social context The principal themes that arc across this story involve massive growth the evolution towards a research intensive institution changing pedagogical imperatives bureaucratisation and internationalisation in the face of declining public funding NCLEX-PN
