Decisions and Orders of the National Labor Relations Board , Muslim Women in Contemporary North America

Meena Sharify-Funk, 2022-12-06 Muslim Women in Contemporary North America is a provocative study of how strongly held and divergent opinions, values and beliefs as well as misconceptions, overgeneralizations and political agendas pertaining to Muslim women in the region enter the public frame of reference. Interrogating contested topics in a series of case studies from both Canada and the United States, this book probes below the surface in pursuit of deeper understanding and more productive dialogue. Chapters analyze controversies over clash literature, dissident reformists, female religious leadership, veils and the nature of emancipation in a compelling examination of the ways in which Muslim American and Canadian identities and values are being defined, differentiated and projected. By pinpointing both sources of dissonance and unexpected patterns of resonance among complex, composite and at times overlapping identity constellations, this book uncovers the impact of controversies on broader cultural negotiations in the United States and Canada. Transforming controversy and cliché into genuine conversation, Muslim Women in Contemporary North America is an invaluable resource for scholars and students in the fields of Islamic and Muslim Studies, Gender Studies, International Relations, Political Science and Sociology.

Greater than Equal Sarah Caroline Thuesen, 2013-08-01 During the half century preceding widespread school integration, black North Carolinians engaged in a dramatic struggle for equal educational opportunity as segregated schooling flourished. Drawing on archival records and oral histories, Sarah Thuesen gives voice to students, parents, teachers, school officials and civic leaders to reconstruct this high stakes drama. She explores how African Americans pressed for equality in curricula, higher education, teacher salaries and school facilities; how white officials co-opted equalization as a means of forestalling integration; and finally how black activism for equality evolved into a fight for something greater than equal integrated schools that served as models of civic inclusion. These battles persisted into the Brown era, mobilized black communities, narrowed material disparities, fostered black school pride and profoundly shaped the eventual movement for desegregation. Thuesen emphasizes that the remarkable achievements of this activism should not obscure the inherent limitations of a fight for equality in a segregated society. In fact, these unresolved struggles are emblematic of fault lines that developed across the South and serve as an urgent reminder of the inextricable connections between educational equality, racial diversity and the achievement of first class citizenship.

Disability Rights and Religious Liberty in Education Bruce J. Dierenfield, David A. Gerber, 2020-07-06 In 1988, Sandi and Larry Zobrest sued a suburban Tucson, Arizona school district that had denied their hearing-impaired son a taxpayer-funded interpreter in his Roman Catholic high school. The Catalina Foothills School District argued that providing a public resource for a private religious school created an unlawful crossover between church and state. The Zobrests, however, claimed that the district had infringed on both their First Amendment right to freedom of religion and the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). Bruce J. Dierenfield and David A. Gerber use the Zobrests' story to examine the complex history and jurisprudence of disability accommodation and educational mainstreaming. They look at the family's effort to acquire educational resources for their son starting in early childhood and the choices the Zobrests made to prepare him for life in the hearing world rather than the deaf community Dierenfield and Gerber also analyze the thorny church state issues and legal controversies that informed the case its journey to the U S Supreme Court and the impact of the high court s ruling on the course of disability accommodation and religious liberty Bridging The Opportunity Gap II Dr. Danielle Hyles, 2025-01-16 Bridging The Opportunity Gap II is an international comparative education leadership novel based in both Toronto Canada and Sydney Australia that explores the history culture and organizational structure of its supports and barriers to uplift future school principals to system superintendent for a district within the school board This is to motivate upcoming school principals to take their high education degrees superintendent courses and other professional development opportunities to be promoted to higher education leadership senior roles of management and success
