The Nation as a Local Metaphor Alon Confino, 2000-11-09 All nations make themselves up as they go along but not all make themselves up in the same way In this study Alon Confino explores how Germans turned national and argues that they imagined the nation as an extension of their local place In 1871 the work of political unification had been completed but Germany remained a patchwork of regions with different histories and traditions Germans had to construct a national memory to reconcile the peculiarities of the region and the totality of the nation This identity project examined by Confino as it evolved in the southwestern state of WArtemberg oscillated between failure and success The national holiday of Sedan Day failed in the 1870s and 1880s to symbolically commingle localness and nationhood Later the idea of the Heimat or homeland did prove capable of representing interchangeably the locality the region and the nation in a distinct national narrative and in visual images The German nationhood project was successful argues Confino because Germans made the nation into an everyday local experience through a variety of cultural forms including museums school textbooks popular poems travel guides posters and postcards But it was not unique Confino situates German nationhood within the larger context of modernity and in doing so he raises broader questions about how people in the modern world use the past in the construction of identity

Managing Conflict in a Negotiated World Peter M. Kellett, Diana G. Dalton, 2001-03-30 Peter Kellett and Diana Dalton set out in this text to address the question How do people manage conflict effectively This is a simple question with an elusive and complex answer To determine how to manage conflict one must first understand the meaning of conflict for those engaged in it The authors do this by presenting a step by step guide to describing interpreting understanding and managing conflict Using real life narratives they explain how and why conflict occurs and strategies that one can deploy to manage the conflict These interpretive and dialogic skills are illustrated clearly through the pairing of personal narratives with relevant discussion questions and challenging exercises The first part of the book aims to equip readers with the ability to collect analyze and learn from conflicts from the perspective of developing more dialogic relationships The second part enables the reader to apply this interpretive process to several communication contexts With their thorough coverage of conflict management issues and their engaging writing style Peter Kellett and Diana Dalton compel readers to examine their own conflicts for opportunities to learn grow communicate and change

The Intersection of Poetry and Jungian Analysis Through Metaphor Regina Colonia-Willner, 2024-08-06 The Intersection of Poetry and Jungian Analysis Through Metaphor In Creation You Are Created explores the relationship between Jungian psychoanalytical intervention and poetry focusing on the emergence of metaphor which occurs in both processes as it happens in neuroscience and fairy tales Metaphor is a mode of communication that forms a bridge between different experience domains through associative linkages it refers to a subject by mentioning another for rhetorical effect Indeed the prominence of metaphor in Jungian therapy is a characteristic that differentiates it from other forms of treatment That s because metaphor as we will see in this book is deeply rooted in the body in two ways It is used to organize bodily sensations cognitively and is located on the border between mind and brain C G Jung uses a metaphor when he observes in Memories Dreams Reflections As far as we can discern the sole purpose of existence is to kindle a light in the darkness of mere being

Notes on Love in a Tamil Family Margaret Trawick, 2023-11-15 Love as a force in human affairs is still not given much attention or credency by social scientists With Notes on Love in a Tamil Family Margaret Trawick places the notion of love prominently in social scientific discourse Her unforgettable and profusely illustrated study is a significant contribution to anthropology and to South Asian studies Trawick lived for a time in the midst of one large South Indian family and sought to understand the multiple and mutually shared expressions of anpu what in English we call love Often enveloping the author herself changing her as she inevitably changed her hosts this family performed before the young anthropologist s eyes the meaning of anpu through poetry and conversation through the not always gentle raising of children through the weaving of kinship tapestries through erotic exchanges among women among men and across the great sexual
