Effectiveness of teachers' guides in the Global South Benjamin Piper, Yasmin Sitabkhan, Jessica Mejia, Kellie Betts, 2018-05-10 This report presents the results of RTI International Education's study on teachers' guides across 13 countries and 19 projects Using quantitative and qualitative methods we examine how teachers' guides across the projects differ and find substantial variation in the design and structure of the documents We develop a scripting index so that the scripting levels of the guides can be compared across projects The impact results of the programs that use teachers' guides show significant impacts on learning outcomes associated with approximately an additional half year of learning showing that structured teachers' guides contribute to improved learning outcomes During observations we find that teachers make a variety of changes in their classroom instruction from how the guides are written showing that the utilization of structured teachers' guides do not create robotic teachers unable to use their own professional skills to teach children Unfortunately many changes that teachers make reduce the amount of group work and interactivity that was described in the guides suggesting that programs should encourage teachers to more heavily utilize the instructional routines designed in the guide The report includes a set of research based guidelines that material developers can use to develop teachers' guides that will support effective instructional practices and help improve learning outcomes The key takeaway from the report is that structured teachers' guides improve learning outcomes but that overly scripted teachers' guides are somewhat less effective than simplified teachers' guides that give specific guidance to the teacher but are not written word for word for each lesson in the guide

Applied Construction Grammar Sabine De Knop, Gaëtanelle Gilquin, 2016-04-25 Current research within the framework of Construction Grammar CxG has mainly adopted a theoretical or descriptive approach neglecting the more applied perspective and especially the question of how language acquisition and pedagogy can benefit from a CxG based approach The present volume explores various aspects of Applied Construction Grammar through a collection of studies that apply CxG and CxG inspired approaches to relevant issues in L2 acquisition and teaching Relying on empirical data and covering a wide range of constructions and languages the chapters show how the cross fertilization of CxG and L2 acquisition teaching can improve the description of learners' use of constructions provide theoretical insights into the processes underlying their acquisition e.g. with reference to inheritance links or transfer from the L1 or lead to novel teaching practices and resources aimed to help learners make the generalizations that native speakers make naturally from the input they receive     The Framework for Success in Postsecondary Writing Nicholas N. Behm, Sherry

Rankins-Robertson, 2017-03-03 Illustrates the widespread applications of the Framework for Success in Postsecondary Writing especially the eight habits of mind in helping students to be successful not only in postsecondary writing courses but also in four arenas of life academic professional civic and personal     Taylor's 7th Teaching and Learning Conference 2014 Proceedings Siew Fun Tang, Loshinikarasi Logonnathan, 2015-06-01

These conference proceedings showcase a rich and practical exchange of approaches and vital evidence based practices taking place around the world They clarify the complex challenges involved in bringing about a holistic educational environment in schools and institutes of higher learning that fosters greater understanding and offer valuable insights on how to avoid the pitfalls that come with rolling out holistic approaches to education To do so the proceedings focus on the subthemes Support and Development Mobility and Diversity and Networking and Collaboration in Holistic Education     Crisis and Class War in Egypt Sean F. McMahon, 2016-10-15 In 2011 capital's crisis erupted in Egyptian society This eruption and subsequent politics have been misrepresented as revolutionary as the working class was and is increasingly so devalued and disempowered In Crisis and Class War in Egypt Sean F McMahon critically analyses Egypt's recent political history He argues that the so called revolution was the appearance of capital's destruction of the value of the Egyptian working class and an existential crisis for capital In response productive capital in the form of the military used disposed of and replaced its junior partners in governing first the predatory capital of the Mubarak state with the commodity capital of the Muslim Brotherhood and then commodity capital with the finance capital of the Gulf Cooperation Council These reconfigurations have been expressed in all manner of reactionary governmental arrangements including constitutions legislation and currency reform Extending today's analysis into the near future McMahon sees the war of Egyptian society intensifying and increasingly violent lives for Egyptian workers     Elites and Arab Politics Ian Kelly, 2020-06-11

This work explains elite behaviour in authoritarian systems and proposes why elites withdraw their support for the incumbent when faced with popular uprisings Building upon foundations drawn from institutional authoritarianism and synthesised with local context from the substantial scholarship on the Middle East and North Africa the book argues that the elite supporting autocrats come from three distinct cadres the military the single party and the personalist Each of these cadres possesses its own distinct institutional interests and preferences towards regime change Drawing on these interests the study constructs a theoretical framework that is assessed through testing it against three variables Utilising an analytic narrative the research finds that the withdrawal of elite support is the consequence of long term processes that see distinct cadres marginalised First increased incumbent preference for personalist elements destabilises regimes as the military and single party cadres reconsider their positions Second neoliberal economic policies implemented via structural adjustment accelerated this personalisation as the state's withdrawal from the economy This in turn affected the ability of the military and single party elites to access patronage Finally the degree of military involvement in the formal political sphere contributes to shaping the nature of the system that replaced the incumbent regime under examination Building upon a wide range of literature the book argues that interest realisation determines whether or not elite actors support regime change in authoritarian systems The volume will be of interest to scholars researching politics social sciences and the Middle East
