Educating Service Children Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee, 2006-09-06. Frequent moves are a feature of Service life and mobility can have a detrimental impact on children's emotional well-being and their educational attainment. The Committee's report examines issues relating to the education of the children of armed forces service personnel including Service schools overseas and the performance of the Ministry of Defence's agency Service Children's Education (SCE) which is responsible for providing these schools as well as issues affecting Service children in UK state maintained and independent sector day and boarding schools. The Committee concludes that Service personnel deserve assurance that their children's education will not suffer because of their parent's employment and expresses its doubts that the DfES and the MoD currently take the interests of Service children sufficiently into account. Findings include the need for better co-ordination between the MoD, the DfES and the devolved administrations to ensure continuity of education for children moving between different parts of the UK; the DfES needs to undertake work to determine how many Service children are in UK schools and the system for transferring student records between schools needs to be improved, particularly for Service children with special needs and the MoD should increase the provision of telephones and internet access for Service personnel on operations so that they can communicate with their children. Gifted?: The shift to enrichment, challenge and equity Morgan Whitfield, 2024-07-19 Gifted and talented is a zombie It is dead but still walking around There are new labels to stratify students more able significantly able high aptitude learners New labels do not equal new thinking The concept of gifted is still stubbornly embedded in our educational structures with its legacy of social immobility racism and sexism Students can be more able when they have more financial resources more access more visibility or more cultural acceptance There are pervasive narratives that educators should prioritise extension for some students and not others We can dispel the myth that pitching lessons judiciously to middle ability and then differentiating up and down is effective This book explores how we can provide every student with rigorous challenge Challenge for all is an inclusive approach to teaching whereby every student is invited and given the tools to reach a place of mastery This can be through project based learning Harkness round tables oracy adaptive teaching inclusive enrichment programs dynamic classroom strategies and a schoolwide mission for equity Educators can embed powerful knowledge into the curriculum reimagine teaching to the top and stretch learners through personalised and responsive instruction The shift to enrichment challenge and equity creates magnificent possibilities The message to all students is you belong here English Journal, 1921
