Twenty Years of Education Transformation in Gauteng 1994 to 2014 Maringe, Felix, Prew, Martin, 2015-05-05
Twenty Years of Education Transformation in Gauteng 1994 to 2014 An Independent Review presents a collection of 15 important essays on different aspects of education in Gauteng since the advent of democracy in 1994 These essays talk to what a provincial education department does and how and why it does these things whether it be about policy resourcing or implementing projects Each essay is written by one or more specialist in the relevant focus area The book is written to be accessible to the general reader as well as being informative and an essential resource for the specialist reader It sheds light on aspects of how a provincial department operates and why and with what consequences certain decisions have been made in education over the last 20 turbulent years both nationally and provincially There has been no attempt to fit the book's chapters into a particular ideological or educational paradigm and as a result the reader will find differing views on various aspects of the Gauteng Department of Education's present and past We leave the reader to decide to what extent the GDE has fulfilled its educational mandate over the last 20 years

Making Education Inclusive Sharon Moonsamy, Elizabeth Walton, 2015-09-18 Exclusionary pressures and practices are pervasive in education despite the clamour for more inclusive education Even as classrooms worldwide become more diverse education is unlikely to become inclusive without deliberate efforts to dismantle exclusion and enable inclusion This book is a compilation of contributions to the conversation about what these efforts might entail The conversation has its origins in the Making Education Inclusive Conference held in 2013 which brought together academics and practitioners from Southern Africa and other countries Given the expectation that teachers should play a key role in promoting inclusion it is not surprising to find significant interest in teacher education from many of the contributing authors Their concerns range from explicit teacher development for pedagogical responsiveness to learner diversity to overcoming the epistemological marginalisation that learners experience where teachers are not fully confident of their subject content and how to teach it Access to education is clearly not enough and other contributors to this book concern themselves with ways in which structures and systems could be reconstituted to enable meaningful inclusion This might mean looking at how teachers might use tiered systems of behaviour support and various metacognitive strategies how physical access can be promoted on a university campus and understanding how parents think about disability Each chapter represents a different perspective on what it might mean to resist educational exclusion in its many forms and each offers possible ways to make education more inclusive

Diepsloot Anton Harber, 2011-05-03 In a little more than a decade Diepsloot has transformed from a semi rural expanse to a dense seething settlement of about 200 000 people A post apartheid creation lying to the north of Johannesburg Diepsloot is talked about as a place of fear vigilante justice xenophobic violence and a haven for criminals and undocumented foreigners Respected journalist Anton Harber spent several months there meeting the people drinking in the taverns and probing the bitter local political battles He patrolled with volunteer crime fighters at night He spoke to politicians church members and artists He interviewed city officials asking them why so little progress was being made in developing Diepsloot He investigated why the much need police station stands unfinished Amidst the poverty violence and chaos he found a bustling place much loved by its inhabitants an active economy with all the associated hustling and trading He found people who when neglected by the state made their own solutions Most of all I learned that if you want to understand where this country is headed you need to listen to the people of Diepsloot Hear what they are saying Take note of their hopes and aspirations You might be surprised Diepsloot is the first study of its kind that seeks to understand change as it is lived on the ground and not as it is talked about in the media and corridors of power Rich with detail and local colour it offers a nuanced examination of life as it is lived despite the State with its half completed police station and the ANC with its internecine warfare JACOB DLAMINI Administrative Subdivisions of Countries Gwillim Law, 2015-05-20 In marked contrast to the United States with its territorial stability some countries such as Bulgaria and Ethiopia reorganize their regional subdivisions frequently This large format reference work simplifies the comparison of decades worth of data from such countries With this book in hand one can answer any administrative subdivision question about any state or province in the world from 1900 through 1998 Abstracts of Public Administration Development and Environment For each country there is at least one table and usually several Histories of subdivision changes and lists of alternate names for subdivisions in each country add to the work s research value All relevant national and international standards such as ISO and FIPS codes are listed as well as time zones populations areas and capitals for each subdivision There is a comprehensive index of names sources de renseignements supplémentaires L'Afrique du Sud et les États voisins Philippe Gervais-Lambony, 2013-11-06 L'Afrique australe suscite aujourd'hui un regain d'intérêt notamment de la part des investisseurs et des grandes puissances qui cherchent à développer de nouvelles formes de partenariat. Au sein de cet espace l'Afrique du Sud occupe une place majeure. Depuis la fin de l'apartheid le pays qui a rejoint le cercle des BRICS a connu des transformations considérables : nouveau système politique, réorganisation des découpages territoriaux, réforme des systèmes de santé et d'éducation etc. Dans le même temps quelque 8 millions de personnes ont gagné l'accès à l'eau courante et près de 3 millions de logements sociaux ont été construits. L'Afrique du Sud est-elle pour autant tout fait postapartheid et peut-elle être le moteur d'une Afrique australe qui en reste largement dépendante ? Plus de 40 % des Sud-Africains vivent en dessous du seuil de pauvreté et les clivages sociaux semblent s'accroître. Bien des promesses n'ont pas été tenues, notamment celle d'une réforme foncière essentielle si l'on observe l'évolution du Zimbabwe voisin. Dans les quartiers pauvres des villes les révoltes populaires contre les autorités locales et les violences régulières contre les migrants étrangers reflètent les insatisfactions profondes des plus démunis. Enfin en août 2012 le massacre de la mine de platine de Marikana a choqué les opinions publiques mondiales. Les transformations en cours peuvent donc sembler contradictoires : certaines découlent du passage de l'apartheid au post-apartheid et d'autres de la réintégration dans le système économique mondial. Quelles qu'elles soient elles ont affecté tous les États frontaliers de l'Afrique du Sud : Botswana, Lesotho, Mozambique, Namibie, Swaziland, Zimbabwe. Cette édition augmentée vise à interroger les réorganisations territoriales de la région après les changements politiques de ces vingt dernières années.

AgExporter, 1998 Innovations in online teaching and learning Judah P. Makonye, Nokulunga S. Ndlovu, 2023-03-01 This book's research is on online pedagogical approaches devised by teacher educators and researchers to circumvent a face-to-face curriculum delivery during the COVID-19 pandemic. The challenge faced by educators was that they were uncertain of how to use digital technologies in teaching learning and assessment productively. This book reports on case studies on teaching student teachers with technology in a way that advanced not only communication but also the cognitive growth of students in relation to disciplinary knowledge. The scholars from South African universities used both conceptual and empirical methodologies mostly in qualitative set-ups. The scholarly contributions in this book are varied. They cover theoretical nuances for ICT use in education, considerations for the use of computers in the classroom, pedagogical thinking and pedagogical integration of ICTs in education, affordances of iPads in visible teaching and learning, supporting student cognition in Languages, Mathematics, Science, Engineering, Graphics and Design with ICTs. The use of software applications such as GeoGebra and Excel in teaching and learning mathematics is researched among others. The rich discussions that emerged from their research enable academics to learn from others' innovative moments that came as a result of pandemic pressure. The recommendations in this book can be used in blended learning beyond the COVID-19 era as curriculum delivery methods are bound to change. The value of this book is that it reports on pedagogical innovations in using digital technologies in teacher education. Researchers have an opportunity to learn from this book how to deal with the tantalising teaching and learning problem of our time How can the use of digital technology transform teaching and learning in general and teacher education in particular Education in a New South Africa Robert J. Balfour, 2015-09-24 A collaborative series with the University of Cambridge Faculty of Education highlighting leading edge research across Teacher Education International Education Reform and Language Education
