

The background of the entire cover is a photograph of a winter forest. A path of snow leads from the foreground into the distance, flanked by tall, thin trees whose branches are heavily laden with snow. In the far distance, a bright, low sun or moon is visible, casting a warm, golden glow that illuminates the snow and creates long, soft shadows. The overall color palette is a mix of cool blues and purples from the shadows and the snow, and warm oranges and yellows from the light source.

Sutanto provides a sustained close reading of Herman Bavinck's contributions to theological anthropology and positions him in conversation with current and historical dialogues on embodiment, revelation, affect theory, phenomenology, the cognitive science of religion, ethics, race, covenant, and the beatific vision. Sutanto explores the holistic character of Bavinck's vision of humanity, suggesting ways in which his theological anthropology cuts across several potential binaries in contemporary discourse: between affect and reason, body and soul, animality and religiosity, unity and diversity, and between a this-worldly or other-worldly eschatology.
