Piek, 2006 Jan Piek

provides guidance to help students understand infant motor development from a variety of disciplines and perspectives She outlines current theory and research on the topic Intervention with Infants and Toddlers Joyce S. Taylor, 2004 The goal of this book is to assist families and caregivers in the early intervention care and development of the toddler and to be instrumental in reaching the child's potential. By drawing attention to the ways in which some children with disabilities have been excluded from public education, these families and caregivers become aware of the importance of understanding the law, its content, and its implications. It is also important to be aware of the laws that have been tested through litigation. The author provides a comprehensive yet easily understandable background on these laws and includes basic insight into various examples. Main topics include: 1. Federal legislation and state compliance, child find, and screening evaluation; determination of eligibility; the IFSP service delivery and reimbursement of the early intervention process; 2. co-treatment and assisted intervention; counseling; limiting services; the efficacy of early intervention; 3. professional responses; consumer satisfaction and knowledge of risk versus at-risk challenges; and 4. socioeconomic and cultural diversity and how professionals view each other as team members, including their comments. Personal experiences are provided which serve to make a point and/or bring levity to sometimes grave situations. These experiences contribute to the subjective opinions and research findings that promote the efficacy of early intervention. In addition, this book explores the benefits and success of animal-assisted intervention. The primary audience for the book includes parents, educators, social workers, and others who work with toddlers who have special needs and challenges.

Oski's Essential Pediatrics Michael Crocetti, Michael A. Barone, Frank A. Oski, 2004. This concise text presents the essential information that medical students, residents, and other clinicians need to diagnose and treat patients. Chapters focus on specific clinical problems and follow a user-friendly format with numerous illustrations, algorithms, tables, and graphs. A new section on presenting signs and symptoms has been added, and the chapter organization has been revised for easier reference.

Motor Development and Movement Activities for Preschoolers and Infants with Delays Jo E. Cowden, Carol C. Torrey, 2007. Thoroughly revised and updated, this second edition continues to present both a theoretical and practical approach to motor development and adapted physical activity programs for preschoolers and infants with delays or disabilities. Written from a broad perspective, the authors use easy-to-understand language so that families, caregivers, students, and teachers may provide instruction utilizing the ecological dynamics of various environments. Chapter topics include: motor development; organization of the nervous system; muscle tone; medical and biological considerations including prematurity and low birth weight; drug exposure and autism spectrum disorders; assessment principles of intervention and multi-sensory activities. This new edition identifies the effects of Autism Spectrum Disorders on sensory dysfunction and provides activity interventions to be used by movement specialists. Additionally, the book explains the principles of motor development and answers questions related to positioning, lifting, carrying, and feeding of young children. Practical suggestions and activities are provided for families and professionals to enhance sensory motor development of the young child during structured motor intervention and throughout the day. Generously illustrated, this comprehensive book is an excellent resource for adapted physical educators, early interventionists, and caregivers in motor development for young children with delays or identified disabilities It will additionally serve as a reference for individuals developing motor programs for older children particularly children with severe sensory motor delays
