Trachemys callirostris callirostris and the morrocoya or morrocoy Chelonoidis carbonaria motivated by the need to identify at the level of species multiple fragments of turtles that we recovered in the excavations of archeological sites. This level of detail is justified since only in this way it is possible to derive from such studies valuable information about fundamental aspects for the reconstruction of human trajectories such as the interaction between humans and the environment, different species biogeographic history and in general the cultural patterns associated with the appropriation of the Fauna.

The book uses the theme of evolution to develop a broad scale view of animal diversity. Students focus not only the organisms themselves but also the processes that produce evolutionary diversity. The book is unique in its comprehensive survey of zoological diversity and its emphasis on evolutionary, systematic and ecological principles all in one package.
