tools of philosophical analysis are not only fruitful but also essential for dealing with the central issues of systematic theology. The title of this volume Meaning and the Christian Faith highlights two characteristic themes that recur throughout the many writings of Vincent Brummer. Much of his work has been devoted to exploring the meaning of the Christian faith and especially of its central claim that God is a personal being whose fellowship believers may enjoy. On the other hand Brummer has also shown that religious belief should not be understood as an explanatory theory but rather as a way in which believers understand the meaning of their lives and their experience of the world and direct their lives accordingly. Thus in the Christian tradition believers claim that their lives are meaningful because they seek to attain ultimate happiness in the love of God. In the introductory sections throughout this volume Vincent Brummer describes how he came to pay attention to the various themes dealt with in his writings and explains why he came to deal with them in the ways he did. Ancient Judaism and Christian Origins George W. E. Nickelsburg, 2003. In the nineteenth and first half of the twentieth century Christian scholars portrayed Judaism as the dark religious backdrop to the liberating events of Jesus' life and the rise of the early church. Since the 1950s however a dramatic shift has occurred in the study of Judaism driven by new manuscript and archaeological discoveries and new methods and tools for analyzing sources. George Nickelsburg here provides a broad and synthesizing picture of the results of the past fifty years of scholarship on early Judaism and Christianity. He organizes his discussion around a number of traditional topics: scripture and tradition, Torah and the righteous life, God's activity on humanity's behalf, agents of God's activity, eschatology, historical circumstances and social settings. Each of the chapters discusses the findings of contemporary research on early Judaism and then sketches the implications of this research for a possible reinterpretation of Christianity. Still in the author's view there remains a major Jewish-Christian agenda yet to be developed and implemented. Leadership for 21st Century Learning Colin Latchem, Donald E. Hanna, 2013-11-05. The challenge of managing education effectively is formidable. Written by two education managers, this text explores the issues associated with good leadership in educational and training institutions. It is based on their own work and on a series of detailed interviews with eminent leaders. Working and Mothering in Asia Theresa W. Devasahayam, Brenda S. A. Yeoh, 2007. Large numbers of women in Asia engage in paid work in many cases outside the home. Some of them simply need to support their families. Others, particularly educated women, hope to develop rewarding careers. Many of these women also continue to shoulder the home and family responsibilities that social and cultural norms define as their primary concern. In an effort to balance the conflicting demands of these roles, women in various Asian societies are negotiating, contesting and reconfiguring motherhood.
