Taboo Jon Entine,2008-08-05 In virtually every sport in which they are given opportunity to compete people of African descent dominate East Africans own every distance running record Professional sports in the Americas are dominated by men and women of West African descent Why have blacks come to dominate sports Are they somehow physically better And why are we so uncomfortable when we discuss this Drawing on the latest scientific research journalist Jon Entine makes an irrefutable case for black athletic superiority We learn how scientists have used numerous bogus scientific methods to prove that blacks were either more or less superior physically and how racist scientists have often equated physical prowess with intellectual deficiency Entine recalls the long hard road to integration both on the field and in society And he shows why it isn t just being black that matters it makes a huge difference as to where in Africa your ancestors are from Equal parts sports science and examination of why this topic is so sensitive Taboo is a book that will spark national debate The Geopolitical Impact of Climate Mitigation Policies Sijbren de Jong,Willem L. Auping,Willem Th. Oosterveld,Artur Usanov,Mercedes Abdalla,Alice van de Bovenkamp,Christopher Frattina della Frattina,2017-04-18 At the Paris Climate Conference held in December 2015 195 countries adopted the Paris Agreement the first universal legally binding global climate deal The signatory parties committed themselves to a global action plan that aims to keep global warming to well below 2 C and to limit the global temperature increase to 1.5 C As part of our Geo Economics research initiative The Hague Centre for Strategic Studies has investigated the geopolitical consequences of climate mitigation and energy transition among a number of countries richly endowed in hydrocarbons who potentially stand to lose a significant part of their revenue stream as a result of demand changes for fossil fuels If demand for oil and gas demand were to decrease as a result of successful climate mitigation policies the financial and social stability of these countries will ceteris paribus be negatively affected especially if they fail to reform their domestic economies The presented study entitled The Geopolitical Impact of Climate Mitigation Policies employs a number of innovative investigative methods and analytical approaches to generate insights regarding sociopolitical stability in the wake of the world s transition to renewable energy systems in a number of major oil and gas exporting nations near Europe On top of this the report looks closely at the energy situation in Sub Saharan Africa and analyzes in detail which choices developing nations face with respect to their future energy mix Given the deep and complex relationship between the global energy sector and international politics these findings have numerous implications both short and long term for our future efforts to combat climate change while simultaneously fending off any consequential drivers of sociopolitical instability

God Is Back John Micklethwait,Adrian Wooldridge,2009-04-02 A landmark examination of the resurgence of faith around the globe The Editor in Chief of The Economist and its Lexington columnist show how the global rise of religion will dramatically impact our century in God Is Back Contrary to the popular assumption that modernism would lead to the rejection of faith American style evangelism has sparked a global revival On the street and in the corridors of power the authors shine a bright light on a vast yet until now hidden world of religion Twenty first century faith is being fueled by a very American emphasis on competition and a customer driven attitude toward salvation Revealing how the religion boom is destabilizing politics and the global economy God Is Back concludes by showing how the same American ideas that created our unique religious style can be applied to channel the rising tide of faith away from volatility and violence

Chinese Television and Soft Power in Africa Angela Lewis,2023-08-18 This book examines the phenomenal growth over recent years of StarTimes a Chinese pay TV company with around 30 million subscribers providing satellite television to 20 African countries The broadcaster whose markets include demographic groups deemed uneconomic by Western television providers combines entertainment such as Chinese drama and Kung Fu content dubbed into African languages with Chinese state programming thus making the station at least partially a public diplomacy instrument At the same time the channel provides new indigenous language channels widened access to television in rural areas and sponsors African soccer brands The book considers all aspects of StarTimes how it fits into China s development assistance programmes its structure as a private company nonetheless financed by Chinese banks and based on extensive interview research in Ghana Kenya and Zambia how the station is perceived by media professionals Overall the book shows how this major Chinese international media expansion both contributes very significantly to African development in a way which is sensitive to local concerns and at the same time enhances China s international image Technology, Adaptation, and Exports Vandana

Chandra,2006-01-01 The literature on technological change and growth has mainly used econometric models to establish that factors such as the degree of openness skills research and development expenditures number of patents etc are critical determinants of innovation and its effect on growth However this approach fails to explain the role of institutions and policies that created the environment for innovation Using 10 case studies from developing countries this book examines how governments fostered technological adaptation through public private partnerships to develop world class exporters in high
