Miller,2021-04-13 In this bold work of broad scope and rich erudition Richard Miller sets out to reorient the philosophy of science By questioning both positivism and its leading critics he develops new solutions to the most urgent problems about justification explanation and truth Using a wealth of examples from both the natural and the social sciences Fact and Method applies the new account of scientific reason to specific questions of method in virtually every field of inquiry including biology physics history sociology anthropology economics psychology and literary theory Explicit and up to date analysis of leading alternative views and a wealth of examples make it an ideal introduction to the philosophy of science as well as a powerful attempt to change the field Like the works of Hempel Reichenbach and Nagel in an earlier generation it will challenge instruct and help anyone with an interest in science and its limits For the past quarter century the philosophy of science has been in a crisis brought on by the failure of the positivist project of resolving all basic methodological questions by applying absolutely general rules valid for all fields at all times Professor Miller presents a new view in which what counts as an explanation a cause a confirming test or a compelling case for the existence of an unobservable is determined by frameworks of specific substantive principles rationally adopted in the light of the actual history of inquiry While the history of science has usually been the material for relativism Professor Miller uses arguments of Darwin Newton Einstein Galileo and others both to undermine positivist conceptions of rationality and to support the positivists optimism that important theoretical findings are often justifiable from all reasonable perspectives 1960 Census of Housing, Taken as a Part of the Eighteenth Decennial Census of the United States: City blocks United States.
