

Magnitude of the Equilibrium Constant

For a reaction

the equilibrium constant  $K$  is defined as the ratio of products to reactants at equilibrium:

$$K = \frac{[C]^c [D]^d}{[A]^a [B]^b}$$

Because  $K$  represents the ratio of products to reactants, the magnitude of  $K$  is an indicator of the extent of products and reactants present when the reaction is at equilibrium. Some chemical reactions proceed almost fully to products, whereas other chemical reactions hardly react with each other at all, or react so as to have significant amounts of both reactants and products at equilibrium.

Part A

Hydrogen is used as a rocket fuel because it is very light and reacts explosively and completely with oxygen. For the combustion reaction

$$2H_2(g) + O_2(g) \rightleftharpoons 2H_2O(g)$$

what is the likely magnitude of the equilibrium constant  $K$ ?

• Hint

Hint 1. How to approach the problem: Look to your

- ☐  $K < 10^{-4}$
- ☐  $10^{-4} < K < 10^2$
- ☐  $K > 1$
- ☐  $K > 10^2$

Submit My Answer Give Up

Incorrect, Try Again

If the were true, the product would be formed in the reaction.

Part B

The industrial production of iron (Fe) from various carbonates is accomplished via the following reaction:

Given the following data:

Temperature (K)	$K$

Anita Woolfolk, Kay Margetts, 2012-07-25 Learning and teaching is an integrated process and theory and practice cannot be separated. As in the previous Australasian edition Educational Psychology 3e continues to emphasise the educational implications and applications of child development, cognitive science, learning and teaching. Recurring themes throughout the text include ideas about education, social and socio-cultural aspects of education, schools, families and community, development, learning and curriculum, and effective teaching. Author Kay Margetts incorporates Australasian perspectives and applications using the work of Australasian researchers and teachers. Numerous examples, case studies, guidelines, and practical tips from experienced teachers are used in the text to explore the connections between knowledge, understanding and practice.

Successful Research Careers: A Practical Guide Delamont, Sara, Atkinson, Paul, 2004-04-01 It is not hard to be a research-active academic or to build a research group or to create a research culture. Here are sensible strategies available to everyone and that empower everyone in higher education. Seizing the opportunities, refusing to be a victim, and most importantly, learning how the system works are among the strategies available to anyone motivated to succeed. This book takes a radical, unstuffy look at higher education. It is of interest and relevance to anyone working in the higher education sector. Based on the authors' research on research groups and on their experience as Head of Department, Dean, and Pro Vice-Chancellor, the book provides advice for younger academics making their way in the system and for more senior people who need to mentor research staff, build research groups, and shape research-led careers. The book provides practical advice on key aspects of research activity: getting research grants, publishing in peer-reviewed journals, and writing books. The current climate of research activity is discussed in the context of Research Assessment and the context of glittering prizes.

Improving Adult Literacy Instruction National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on Learning Sciences: Foundations and Applications to Adolescent and Adult

Literacy, 2012-04-26 A high level of literacy in both print and digital media is required for negotiating most aspects of 21st-century life, including supporting a family, education, health, civic participation, and competitiveness in the global economy. Yet more than 90 million U.S. adults lack adequate literacy. Furthermore, only 38 percent of U.S. 12th graders are at or above proficient in reading. Improving Adult Literacy Instruction synthesizes the research on literacy and learning to improve literacy instruction in the United States and to recommend a more systemic approach to research practice and policy. The book focuses on individuals ages 16 and older who are not in K-12 education. It identifies factors that affect literacy development in adolescence and adulthood in general and examines their implications for strengthening literacy instruction for this population. It also discusses technologies for learning that can assist with multiple aspects of teaching, assessment, and accommodations for learning. There is inadequate knowledge about effective instructional practices and a need for better assessment and ongoing monitoring of adult students' proficiencies, weaknesses, instructional environments, and progress, which might guide instructional planning. Improving Adult Literacy Instruction recommends a program of research and innovation to validate identify the boundaries of and extend current knowledge to improve instruction for adults and adolescents outside school The book is a valuable resource for curriculum developers federal agencies such as the Department of Education administrators educators and funding agencies

Innovative Methods of Teaching and Learning Chemistry in Higher Education Ingo Eilks,Bill Byers,2015-11-06 Two recent initiatives from the EU namely the Bologna Process and the Lisbon Agenda are likely to have a major influence on European Higher Education It seems unlikely that traditional teaching approaches which supported the elitist system of the past will promote the mobility widened participation and culture of life long learning that will provide the foundations for a future knowledge based economy There is therefore a clear need to seek new approaches to support the changes which will inevitably occur The European Chemistry Thematic Network ECTN is a network of some 160 university chemistry departments from throughout the EU as well as a number of National Chemical Societies including the RSC which provides a discussion forum for all aspects of higher education in chemistry This handbook is a result of one of their working groups who identified and collated good practice with respect to innovative methods in Higher Level Chemistry Education It provides a comprehensive overview of innovations in university chemistry teaching from a broad European perspective The generation of this book through a European Network with major national chemical societies and a large number of chemistry departments as members make the book unique The wide variety of scholars who have contributed to the book make it interesting and invaluable reading for both new and experienced chemistry lecturers throughout the EU and beyond The book is aimed at chemistry education at universities and other higher level institutions and at all academic staff and anyone interested in the teaching of chemistry at the tertiary level Although newly appointed teaching staff are a clear target for the book the innovative aspects of the topics covered are likely to prove interesting to all committed chemistry lecturers
