

Reflection/Transmission

1. a. Sketch the pulse as it moves along a stretched string after reflecting from a fixed end.

- b. Sketch the pulse as it moves along a stretched string after reflecting from a free end.

2. The diagram on the right shows a pulse travelling from a "light" string to a "heavy" string. Reflections follow above the horizontal axis and transmissions follow below the horizontal axis. What pulse is reflected from point P?

- a. Draw the pulse as it travels after reflecting from the fixed end.

- b. Draw the pulse as it travels after reflecting from the free end.

3. The diagram on the right shows a pulse travelling from a "heavy" string to a "light" string. (Draw the reflected and transmitted pulses after the incident pulse has reached point P.)

Now imagine that the heavy string is not fixed to the wall. The heavy string will be displaced to the right by the pulse. This will cause the heavy string to move to the right and the light string to move to the left. The light string will be displaced to the left by the pulse. The light string will be displaced to the left by the pulse. The light string will be displaced to the left by the pulse.

4. Sketch a pulse as it reflects from a heavy string. Sketch the transmitted pulse as it travels from the point P to the wall.

5. The diagram is a multiple choice question. a. pulse travels to the right.

- b. If the rightmost is the heavy string, what will the transmitted pulse look like after the incident pulse reaches the junction? (Draw the pulse as it travels to the right.)

- c. If the rightmost string is the heavy string, what will the transmitted pulse look like after the incident pulse reaches the junction?
