High-Stakes Testing in Education Theo J.H.M Eggen,Gordon Stobart,2015-10-14 High stakes educational testing is a global phenomenon which is increasing in both scale and importance Assessments are high stakes when there are serious consequences for one or more stakeholders Historically tests have largely been used for selection or for providing a licence to practise making them high stakes for the test takers Testing is now also used for the purposes of improving standards of teaching and learning and of holding schools accountable for their students results These tests then become high stakes for teachers and schools especially when they have to meet externally imposed targets More recent has been the emergence of international comparative testing which has become high stakes for governments and policy makers as their education systems are judged in relation to the performances of other countries In this book we draw on research which examines each of these uses of high stakes testing The articles evaluate the impact of such assessments and explore the issues of value and fairness which they raise To underline the international appeal of high stakes testing the studies are drawn from Australia Africa the Caribbean Europe former Soviet republics and North America Collectively they illustrate the power of high stakes assessment in shaping for better or for worse policy making and schooling This book was originally published as a special issue of Assessment in Education Principles Policy Practice

My School Lesley Scanlon,2014-12-17 Education issues feature almost daily in print media online on the radio and on television much of which focuses on the perceived deficits of students and teachers Singled out for special attention are low socio economic status SES schools which are frequently characterised by teachers and students with little investment in learning and teaching Yet within this plethora of educational discussion there is no contemporary longitudinal study of what it means to learn and teach in a disadvantaged school within the policy context of the education revolution in Australia Drawing on 500 interviews conducted over a four period with the Principal parents teachers and students at a regional low SES school this book challenges the profile of one school as represented on the My School website which publishes the results of National Assessment Program in Literacy and Numeracy NAPLAN Chapters situate the original research within an international and national educational context before exploring topics including leadership and management student behaviour constructs of the good teacher the involvement of parents in school and the digital revolution The book closes with an appraisal of the major themes that emerged from the multiple perspectives of the study This is the first book to provide a longitudinal ethnographic study of a school in Australia which examines the impact of the education revolution on the Principal parents teachers and students It comprehensively challenges the official My School representation of a low SES school and will appeal to researchers in education as well as those involved in postgraduate teacher education and sociology courses both from Australia and internationally

Mockler,2015-05-27 This text prepares pre service teachers to best meet the needs of students entering the challenging middle years of their education Compendium for Early Career Researchers in Mathematics Education Gabriele

Kaiser,Norma Presmeg,2019-04-26 The purpose of this Open Access compendium written by experienced researchers in mathematics education is to serve as a resource for early career researchers in furthering their knowledge of the state of the field and disseminating their research through publishing To accomplish this the book is split into four sections Empirical Methods Important Mathematics Education Themes Academic Writing and Academic Publishing and a section Looking Ahead The chapters are based on workshops that were presented in the Early Career Researcher Day at the 13th International Congress on Mathematical Education ICME 13 The combination of presentations on methodological approaches and theoretical perspectives shaping the field in mathematics education research as well as the strong emphasis on academic writing and publishing offered strong insight into the theoretical and empirical bases of research in mathematics education for early career researchers in this field Based on these presentations the book provides a state of the art overview of important theories from mathematics education and the broad variety of empirical approaches currently widely used in mathematics education research This compendium supports early career researchers in selecting adequate theoretical approaches and adopting the most appropriate methodological approaches for their own research Furthermore it helps early career researchers in mathematics education to avoid common pitfalls and problems while writing up their research and it provides them with an overview of the most important journals for research in mathematics education helping them to select the right venue for publishing and disseminating their work Valuing Students with Impairment J. Joy

Cumming,2012-01-05 In this book the author Joy Cumming draws on knowledge of law assessment and measurement to provide an original analysis of the inclusion of students with impairment in educational accountability assessments in the U S England and Australia Equitable education of students with impairment is worldwide policy Educational accountability for improvement of educational outcomes is also a worldwide phenomenon The U S England and Australia are well placed economically and politically to pursue best educational practice for students with impairment and well advanced in both provision and educational accountability systems Examining these three systems enables an analysis of possible optimal practices to guide other countries The book identifies three models of impairment in place in legislation policy and enacted practice for educational accountability with students with impairment Intentions of legislation and policy reflect a social model of impairment while an individual has an impairment social practice creates the barrier that leads to a disability In implementation legislation and policy rely on a medical model of disability categorizing disability in medical or specialist terms In educational accountability practices it is argued in this book a third model of disability is created a psychometric model with impairment constructed through overemphasis on standardization of assessment processes Eight explicit and implicit assumptions that underpin the ways students with impairment are valued in educational accountability are identified and discussed Three recommendations are made to promote equitable inclusive educational accountability practices for students with impairment to inform future policy and practice in all countries

Super Dimensions in Globalisation and Education David R. Cole,Christine Woodrow,2016-02-05 This volume is the first major production of the globalisation research strand of the Centre for Educational Research at Western Sydney University This book makes a significant contribution to the theory of and research in globalisation and education and tackles the topics of superdiversity and supercomplexity The book s thesis is that the effects of globalisation on education can only be understood if the specific yet complex conditions of globalisation in education are investigated The book takes an international approach to understanding globalisation and does not restrict itself to just one methodological or theoretical plane of investigation Education is one of these frontline domains in which the effects of superdiversity cannot be dismissed minimized or denied The continuously increasing complexity of learning environments is raising critical issues at every level from description over analysis to theoretical generalization and this book is a first and fruitful attempt at charting these waters This pioneering book will remain a key text for many years to come Jan Bloomaert Professor of Language Culture and Globalization and Director of the Babylon Center Tilburg University the Netherlands This provocative collection works from two premises that today there is superdiversity in our globalised world and related is a supercomplexity of theoretical and methodological approaches The collection proffers multifarious challenges for educational theory research and practice in working with through and across these two premises As such Super Dimensions in Globalisation and Education is essential reading for all educational researchers whatever their interests or location Professor Bob Lingard The University of Queensland Australia This is a highly imaginative book that stops flat earth and convergence arguments dead in their tracks Its genius is to bring super complexity and super diversity into a conversation with each other and with education and in doing so shed light on the numerous and unexpected ways in which global processes are shaping education in revealing and compelling ways Any scholar concerned with globalisation and education will find Super Dimensions in Globalisation and Education a must have on their reading list Professor Susan Robertson Director of the Centre for Globalisation Education and Social Futures University of Bristol UK This is an absorbing and compelling collection It takes readers on a kaleidoscopic journey through various intricate expressions of the nexus between globalisation and education And it offers multiple ways that such expressions can be thought and rethought In transcending conventional categorisations it invites educators to do so too Professor Jane Kenway Australian Professorial Fellow Australian Research Council Education Faculty Monash University Australia

Diversity in Mathematics Education Alan Bishop,Hazel Tan,Tasos N Barkatsas,2014-09-20 This book presents a research focus on diversity and inclusivity in mathematics education The challenge of diversity largely in terms of student profiles or contextual features is endemic in mathematics education and is often argued to require differentiation as a response Typically different curricula text materials task structures or pedagogies are favoured responses but huge differences in achievement still result. If we in mathematics education seek to challenge that status quo more research must be focussed not just on diversity but also on the inclusivity of practices in mathematics education. The book is written by a group of experienced collaborating researchers who share this focus. It is written for researchers, research students, teachers and in-service professionals who recognise both the challenges but also the opportunities of creating and evaluating new inclusive approaches to curriculum and pedagogy, ones that take for granted the positive values of diversity. Several chapters report new research in this direction. The authors are part of or have visited with the mathematics education staff of the Faculty of Education at Monash University in Melbourne, Australia. The chapters all focus on the ideas of development in both research and practice, recognising that the current need is for new inclusive approaches. The studies presented are set in different contexts including Australia, China, the United States and Singapore.

Garth Boomer, English Teaching and Curriculum Leadership

Bill Green, 2024-07-01. This book provides a broad introduction to the critical work of leading Australian educator Garth Boomer, widely recognised as a significant figure in English teaching. This insightful text provides an accessible introduction to his work with particular reference to English curriculum and pedagogy, and provides a fascinating account of his journey as a scholar-practitioner from classroom teaching to the highest levels of the educational bureaucracy. Bill Green explores Boomer's huge influence on literacy education, teacher development, curriculum inquiry and educational policy, and critically asks why Boomer's insights and arguments about English teaching from the last century have such importance for the field now. This text also focuses on the nature and significance of his curriculum thinking, specifically his arguments and provocations regarding English teaching, the English classroom and the contexts that infuse and shape them. It constitutes a rich resource for rethinking English teaching in the present day and provides an important contribution to the historical imagination. With all due consideration of the larger context of social life and educational thought, this text will help any student of English in Education and Language Arts obtain a deeper understanding of Boomer's vital contribution to the field of education.
