Harold Bloom, 2009 Presents a collection of interpretations of Ralph Ellison's novel Invisible Man Liberating Language

Shirley Wilson Logan, 2008-09-11 Liberating Language identifies experiences of nineteenth century African Americans categorized as sites of rhetorical education that provided opportunities to develop effective communication and critical text interpretation skills. Author Shirley Wilson Logan considers how nontraditional sites which seldom involved formal training in rhetorical instruction proved to be effective resources for African American advancement. Logan traces the ways that African Americans learned lessons in rhetoric through language based activities associated with black survival in nineteenth century America such as working in political organizations, reading and publishing newspapers, maintaining diaries, and participating in literary societies. According to Logan, rhetorical training was manifested through places of worship and military camps, self education in oratory and elocution, literary societies, and the black press. She draws on the experiences of various black rhetors of the era such as Frederick Douglass, Frances Harper, Fanny Coppin, Charles Chesnut, Ida B. Wells, and the lesser known Oberlin educated Mary Virginia Montgomery, Virginia slave preacher Uncle Jack, and former slave Mrs. Lee. Liberating Language addresses free floating literacy, a term coined by scholar and writer Ralph Ellison which captures the many settings where literacy and rhetorical skills were acquired and developed, including slave missions, religious gatherings, war camps, and even cigar factories. In Civil War camp sites, for instance, black soldiers learned to read and write, corresponded with the editors of black newspapers, edited their own camp based papers, and formed literary associations. Liberating Language outlines nontraditional means of acquiring rhetorical skills and demonstrates how African Americans, faced with the lingering consequences of enslavement and continuing oppression, acquired rhetorical competence during the late eighteenth century and throughout the nineteenth century. Race in Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man Hayley Mitchell Haugen, 2011-11-21

Addressing topics such as black nationalism, racism, and identity, Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man, first published in 1952, has become a primary text in the discussion of racial politics and black identity in America. This compelling edition examines Ellison's Invisible Man through the lens of race, providing readers with a series of essays that expand upon topics such as black radicalism, racial justice, and sexual taboo as it relates to the novel. The text also features contemporary perspectives on race, urging readers to link the themes of the text to the issues of the present. A Historical Guide to Ralph Ellison Steven C. Tracy, 2004-05-20

The essays in this collection treat the whole of Ralph Ellison's body of work, including his famous novel Invisible Man. The volume confronts Ellison the man of ideas, essayist, and short story writer, as well as the material in his posthumously published novel Juneteenth. Page Fright Harry Bruce, 2009-09-22

A witty round up of writers' habits that includes all the big names such as Dickens, Flaubert, Tolstoy, Hemingway. At public events, readers always ask writers how they write. The process fascinates them. Now they have a very witty book that ranges around the world and throughout history to answer their questions. All the great writers are here: Dickens dashing off his work, Henry James dictating it, Flaubert shouting each word aloud in the garden, Hemingway at work in cafés with his pencil. But pencil or pen, trusty typewriter or computer.

they all have their advocates Not to mention the writers who can only keep the words flowing by writing naked or while walking or listening to music and generally obeying the most bizarre superstitions On Shakespeare s works Fantastic And it was all done with a feather Sam Goldwyn I write nude seated on a thick towel and perhaps with a second towel around me Paul West I ve never heard of anyone getting plumber s block or traffic cop s block Allan Gurganus I m a drinker with a writing problem Brendan Behan

The One vs. the Many Alex Woloch, 2009-02-09 Does a novel focus on one life or many Alex Woloch uses this simple question to develop a powerful new theory of the realist novel based on how narratives distribute limited attention among a crowded field of characters His argument has important implications for both literary studies and narrative theory Characterization has long been a troubled and neglected problem within literary theory Through close readings of such novels as Pride and Prejudice Great Expectations and Le Père Goriot Woloch demonstrates that the representation of any character takes place within a shifting field of narrative attention and obscurity Each individual whether the central figure or a radically subordinated one emerges as a character only through his or her distinct and contingent space within the narrative as a whole The character space as Woloch defines it marks the dramatic interaction between an implied person and his or her delimited position within a narrative structure The organization of and clashes between many character spaces within a single narrative totality is essential to the novel's very achievement and concerns striking at issues central to narrative poetics the aesthetics of realism and the dynamics of literary representation Woloch's discussion of character space allows for a different history of the novel and a new definition of characterization itself By making the implied person indispensable to our understanding of literary form this book offers a forward looking avenue for contemporary narrative theory
