Factor Impact Journals:

The Little Guide to Getting Your Journal Article Published John Bond, 2022-11-14 Writing and publishing are at the heart of most academic and research pursuits. Many potential authors however feel lost in the seemingly Everest climbing like process. There is little formal education that authors receive during their education. The Little Guide to Getting Your Journal Article Published seeks to pull back the curtain on the process and provide essential information to lead authors to their goals. The Little Guide answers all of a novice author's questions in a direct and useful fashion. The book can be read all the way through or serve as a spot reference guide as authors wind their way through the process. The book is divided into 29 short focused chapters. Sections include Getting Started, Selecting Potential Journals for Submission, Writing Your Article, Submitting Your Article, and Publication at Last.

Designing the Microbial Research Commons National Research Council, Policy and Global Affairs, Board on Research Data and Information, 2010-10-30 Recent decades have witnessed an ever increasing range and volume of digital data. All elements of the pillars of science whether observation, experiment, or theory and modeling are being transformed by the continuous cycle of generation, dissemination, and use of factual information. This is even more so in terms of the re using and re purposing of digital scientific data beyond the original intent of the data collectors, often with dramatic results. We all know about the potential benefits and impacts of digital data but we are also aware of the barriers, the challenges in maximizing the access and use of such data. There is thus a need to think about how a data infrastructure can enhance capabilities for finding, using, and integrating information to accelerate discovery and innovation. How can we best implement an accessible, interoperable digital environment so that the data can be repeatedly used by a wide variety of users in different settings and with different applications? With this objective to use the microbial communities and microbial data literature and the research materials themselves as a test case, the Board on Research Data and Information held an International Symposium on Designing the Microbial Research Commons at the National Academy of Sciences in Washington DC on 8-9 October 2009. The symposium addressed topics such as models to lower the transaction costs and support access to and use of microbiological materials and digital resources from the perspective of publicly funded research, public-private interactions, and developing country concerns. The overall goal of the symposium was to stimulate more research and implementation of improved legal and institutional models for publicly funded research in microbiology.

Critical Essays in Sport Management Andy Gillentine, Robert Baker, Jacquelyn Cuneen, 2017-09-29 This collection of essays written by a number of respected sport management scholars addresses many of the challenges and issues facing today's sport management academic programs. It is intended to begin a professional and scholarly discussion to identify the best or at least the most logical paths to follow for sport management programs and the industry with which they are so closely aligned. Contributors invited to participate based on their recognized areas of expertise address specific topics using their own unique voices and writing styles. In the ebook version, essays link to video.

introductions by the authors and to online discussion forums where readers can respond to the issues presented in the essays From the Preface The field of sport management stands at an academic crossroads the essays in this book address the following and other emerging questions Should our successful field of study continue to model other disciplines and perpetuate their successes as well as their shortcomings or should we determine our own specific model for academic success How are we doing in preparing future sport managers to perform in the industry and on the global stage Where do we belong in the scheme of academe The book s goal is to generate discussion among sport management professors industry professionals who serve as adjunct faculty and participate on sport management program advisory boards doctoral students who intend to teach in sport management programs and others who explore and critique higher education in general
