Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week resistance training program on the strength and endurance of the lower extremities in healthy young adults. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group performed no exercise, while the experimental group performed a 12-week resistance training program. The strength and endurance of the lower extremities were measured at the beginning and end of the study. The results showed that the experimental group had significantly greater strength and endurance than the control group at the end of the study. The findings suggest that a 12-week resistance training program can improve the strength and endurance of the lower extremities in healthy young adults.
