Feedback Television Against Democracy:

Feedback David Joselit, 2010-02-26 In a world where politics is conducted through images the tools of art history can be used to challenge the privatized antidemocratic sphere of American television American television embodies a paradox it is a privately owned and operated public communications network that most citizens are unable to participate in except as passive speculators Television creates an image of community while preventing the formation of actual social ties because behind its simulated exchange of opinions lies a highly centralized corporate structure that is profoundly antidemocratic In Feedback David Joselit describes the privatized public sphere of television and recounts the tactics developed by artists and media activists in the 1960s and 1970s to break open its closed circuit The figures whose work Joselit examines among them Nam June Paik Dan Graham Joan Jonas Abbie Hoffman Andy Warhol and Melvin Van Peebles staged political interventions within television's closed circuit Joselit identifies three kinds of image events feedback which can be both disabling noise and rational response as when Abbie Hoffman hijacked television time for the Yippies with flamboyant stunts directed to the media the image virus which proliferates parasitically invading transforming and even blocking systems as in Nam June Paik's synthesized videotapes and installations and the avatar a quasi fictional form of identity available to anyone which can function as a political actor as in Melvin Van Peebles's invention of Sweet Sweetback an African American hero who appealed to a broad audience and influenced styles of Black Power activism These strategies writes Joselit remain valuable today in a world where the overlapping information circuits of television and the Internet offer different opportunities for democratic participation In Feedback Joselit analyzes such midcentury image events using the procedures and categories of art history The trope of figure ground reversal for instance is used to assess acts of representation in a variety of media including the medium of politics In a televisual world Joselit argues where democracy is conducted through images art history has the capacity to become a political science

Postmodernism and Video Art Liz Kim, 2025-08-22 Liz Kim traces the theories and artistic practices that articulated American experimental video through its key works and events art critical discourse as well as the politics of its funding and distribution during the 1970s into the 1980s focusing on New York This is a historical examination of the relationship between experimental video and postmodernism in the context of the early New York video scene as a foundational crucible of ideas and practices Video grew out of both the acculturation of television as well as the resistance against its hegemonic forms as it enabled hybrid user generated content As such video became a testing ground for postmodern thought as it sat at the perfect nexus of mass media art and the politics of representation This book historicizes the theories of video art through the shifts in representations of cultural identities and the changes within its critical and structural supports Through this process chapters uncover new roots of postmodernism through historical evidence widening the scope of the term and its concepts The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history film studies and media studies

Art vs. TV Francesco Spampinato, 2021-12-02 While highlighting the prevailing role of television in Western societies Art vs TV maps and condenses a comprehensive history of the relationships of art and television With a particular focus on the link between reality and representation Francesco Spampinato analyzes video art works installations performances interventions and television programs made by contemporary artists as forms of resistance to and appropriation and parody of mainstream television The artists discussed belong to different generations those that emerged in the 1960s in association with art movements such as Pop Art Fluxus and Happening and those appearing on the scene in the 1980s whose work aimed at deconstructing media representation in line with postmodernist theories to those arriving in the 2000s an era in which through reality shows and the Internet anybody could potentially become a media personality and finally those active in the 2010s whose work reflects on how old media like television has definitively vaporized through the electronic highways of cyberspace These works and phenomena elicit a tension between art and television exposing an incongruence an impossibility not only to converge but at the very least to open up a dialogical exchange

Screens Kate Mondloch, 2013-11-30 Media screens film video and computer screens have increasingly pervaded both artistic production and everyday life since the 1960s Yet the nature of viewing artworks made from these media along with their subjective effects remains largely unexplored Screens addresses this gap offering a historical and theoretical framework for understanding screen reliant installation art and the spectatorship it evokes Examining a range of installations created over the past fifty years that investigate the rich terrain between the sculptural and the cinematic including works by artists such as Eija Liisa Ahtila Doug Aitken Peter Campus Dan Graham VALIE EXPORT Bruce Nauman and Michael Snow Kate Mondloch traces the construction of screen spectatorship in art from the seminal film and video installations of the 1960s and 1970s to the new media artworks of today s digital culture Mondloch identifies a momentous shift in contemporary art that challenges key premises of spectatorship brought about by technological objects that literally and metaphorically filter the subject s field of vision As a result she proposes that contemporary viewers are quite literally screen subjects and offers the unique critical leverage of art as an alternative way to understand media culture and contemporary visuality

New Games Pamela M. Lee, 2013-01-25 Pamela M Lee s New Games revisits postmodernism in light of art history s more recent embrace of the contemporary What can the theories and practices associated with postmodernism tell us about the obsession with the contemporary in both the academy and the art world In looking at work by Dara Birnbaum yvind Fahlstr m and Richard Serra among others Lee returns to Jean Francois Lyotard s canonical text The Postmodern Condition as a means to understand more recent art critical interests in interactivity collectivism and neo liberalism She reads Lyotard s well known treatment of language games relative to the game theory associated with the Cold War and the rise of the information society New Games asks readers to think critically about our recent past and the embattled state of our contemporary preoccupations With a critical introduction by Johanna Burton New Games is the fourth and penultimate volume in Routledge's series of short books on the theories of modernism by leading art historians on twentieth century art and art criticism

Art Systems Elena Shtromberg, 2016-02-01 From currency and maps to heavily censored newspapers and television programming Art Systems explores visual forms of critique and subversion during the height of Brazilian dictatorship drawing sometimes surprising connections between artistic production and broader processes of social exchange during a period of authoritarian modernization Positioning the works beyond the prism of politics Elena Shtromberg reveals subtle forms of subversion and critique that reinvented the artists' political terrain Analyzing key examples from Cildo Meireles Antonio Manuel Artur Barrio Anna Bella Geiger Sonia Andrade Geraldo Mello and others the book offers a new framework for theorizing artistic practice By focusing on the core economic media technological and geographic conditions that circumscribed artistic production during this pivotal era Shtromberg excavates an array of art systems that played a role in the everyday lives of Brazilians An examination of the specific historical details of the social systems that were integrated into artistic production this unique study showcases works that were accessed by audiences far outside the confines of artistic institutions Proliferating during one of Brazil's most socially and politically fraught decades the works spanning cartography to video art do not conform to an easily identifiable style form material use or medium As a result of this breadth Art Systems gives voice to the multifaceted forces at play in a unique chapter of Latin American cultural history

Analyzing Art and Aesthetics Anne Collins Goodyear, Margaret A. Weitekamp, 2013-10-30 This ninth volume of the Artefacts series explores how artists have responded to developments in science and technology past and present Rather than limiting the discussion to art alone editors Anne Collins Goodyear and Margaret Weitekamp also asked contributors to consider aesthetics the scholarly consideration of sensory responses to cultural objects When considered as aesthetic objects how do scientific instruments or technological innovations reflect and embody culturally grounded assessments about appearance feel and use And when these objects become museum artifacts what aesthetic factors affect their exhibition Contributors found answers in the material objects themselves This volume reconsiders how science technology art and aesthetics impact one another

The Celluloid Specimen Benjamin Schultz-Figueroa, 2023-02-28 A free ebook version of this title is available through Luminos University of California Press's Open Access publishing program Visit www.luminosoa.org to learn more In The Celluloid Specimen Benjamin Schultz-Figueroa examines rarely seen behaviorist films of animal experiments from the 1930s and 1940s These laboratory recordings including Robert Yerkes's work with North American primate colonies Yale University's rat-based simulations of human society and B.F. Skinner's promotions for pigeon-guided missiles have long been considered passive records of scientific research In Schultz-Figueroa's incisive analysis however they are revealed to be rich historical political and aesthetic texts that played a crucial role in American scientific and cultural history and remain foundational to contemporary conceptions of species race identity and society

New Media and the Transformation of Postmodern American Literature Casey Michael Henry, 2019-02-07 How has American literature after postmodernism responded to the digital age Drawing on insights from contemporary media theory this is the first book to explore the explosion of new media technologies as an animating context for contemporary American literature Casey Michael Henry examines the intertwining histories of new media forms since the 1970s and literary postmodernism and its aftermath from William Gaddis's J R and Bret Easton Ellis's American Psycho through to David Foster Wallace's Infinite Jest Through these histories the book charts the ways in which print based postmodern writing at first resisted new mass media forms and ultimately came to respond to them
