from Elizabeth I to Charles II Amy L. Tigner, 2016-05-13 Spanning the period from Elizabeth I's reign to Charles II's restoration this study argues the garden is a primary site evincing a progressive narrative of change a narrative that looks to the Edenic as obtainable ideal in court politics economic prosperity and national identity in early modern England In the first part of the study Amy L. Tigner traces the conceptual forms that the paradise imaginary takes in works by Gascoigne Spenser and Shakespeare all of whom depict the garden as a space in which to imagine the national body of England and the gendered body of the monarch In the concluding chapters she discusses the function of gardens in the literary works by Jonson an anonymous masque playwright and Milton the herbals of John Gerard and John Parkinson and the tract writing of Ralph Austen Lawrence Beal and Walter Blithe In these texts the paradise imaginary is less about the body politic of the monarch and more about colonial pursuits and pressing environmental issues As Tigner identifies during this period literary representations of gardens become potent discursive models that both inspire constructions of their aesthetic principles and reflect innovations in horticulture and garden technology Further the development of the botanical garden ushers in a new world of science and exploration With the importation of a new world of plants the garden emerges as a locus of scientific study hybridization medical investigation and the proliferation of new ornamentals and aliments In this way the garden functions as a means to understand and possess the rapidly expanding globe

Reforming a Theology of Gender Daniel R. Patterson, 2022-08-11 Judith Butler and conservative Christian theology are often perceived to be antithetical on questions of gender In Reforming a Theology of Gender they are shown to be strange bedfellows By engaging in dialogue with Butler on her terms desire violence and life this book absorbs the heart of Butler's critique revealing a righteous law and a seductive image in conservative theologies of gender The law of Adam and Eve manifests in the unjust administration of guilt grief and death By confronting this law which in fact condemns all in their bodies further reflection on Butler's thought leads to thinking about where one finds life in one's body of death The seductive image of Adam and Eve is revealed to be a false hope and a site that induces slave morality or body works based righteousness Butler's voice is strangely prophetic because it calls the church to offer hope and life by reorienting its gaze from the beautiful yet lifeless bodies of Adam and Eve to the bloodied and scarred risen body of Jesus Christ Gender in the end is shown to be a vocation of becoming what one is not
