The Reason for the genocide in Rwanda

This is a movie that brings out the truth about the Rwandan genocide which consumed the lives of 800,000 people. This resulted from the history of the Rwanda's two major tribes; the Tutsi and Hutu. Rwanda was colonized by Belgium, and it was supported by the Tutsi. In the colonial process, the Hutus were discriminated by the colonial power, which was Belgium with the help of the Tutsi. When Rwanda attained independent, the Belgians flew out of Rwanda. The Hutus took over power in Rwanda.

The Hutus extremists were filled with tribalism and hard courage guided by the fact that they were in power, they used this as an advantage to revenge the Tutsi. The Hutu extremists then started slowly killing the Tutsi people and the Hutus that were not racists. In the process, many innocent women, children and men were slaughtered by the Hutu extremists. The unique thing that happened was that none of the powerful nations like the US, Belgium, or even the international agency formed with the intention of keeping peace did not intervene. They stared from a far and watched the innocent women, children and men being slaughtered by the Hutu extremists just because they were Tutsi people.

The reason that Kofi Annan gives as to why the UN did not intervene and stop the killings

General Dallier and Barely were the first generals of the United Nations Peacekeeping that were informed of what was happening in Rwanda. General Dallier had less to do on his own without Kofi Anna's approval. For this reason, he sent a telegram to the peacekeeping department of UN General Kofi Annan, who was on the seat at that time. In his telegram, he informed Annan that somebody told him that the Rwandan government was slaughtering its own people just because they were Tutsis. The intention of the government of Rwanda was using this as a trap to chase the Essays in World Languages and Cultures Yves-Antoine Clemmen, Margit Grieb, Will Lehman, 2018-04-16 This volume consists of 16 papers selected from the 22nd Southeast Conference on Foreign Languages Literatures and Films held on February 25-27, 2016 on the campus of Stetson University in Celebration, Florida. The shared focus of the essays is to examine how writers, filmmakers, and language educators address stereotypes in their representations of diverse cultural paradigms by using deconstructing or displacing these stereotypes. The fourth section of this publication includes 4 experimental poems by the artist Susanne Eules. The Shakespearean International Yearbook Alexa Alice Joubin, Natalia Khomenko, 2025-06-30

In the modern world, references to Shakespeare frequently mark moments of catastrophe and of the accompanying longing for restoring social order, remedying injuries, and building strong communities. Shakespeare's moral authority has often been invoked to support artistic projects that claimed social justice as their goal on the assumption that drama has the power to manipulate perceptual reality. Drawing on cases from around the world, this book interrogates the idea that performing or reading Shakespeare has socially reparative value. It also acknowledges Shakespeare as a potential source of social well-being practices in the arts. The global framework shows that it is problematic to view Shakespeare as an impartial moral center. This book proposes that reparative creativity or remedial uses of the canon can give artists and audiences more agency. Having a map of canonical texts, hidden ideologies can help readers, artists, and playgoers navigate its landscape, which is in itself a reparative act.

Mobilizing the Will to Intervene Frank Robert Chalk, 2010. Published for the Montreal Institute for Genocide and Human Rights Studies at Concordia University. The Rwandan Genocide on Film Matthew Edwards, 2018-07-09. The Rwandan genocide was one of the most shameful events of the 20th century. Many Westerners' understanding of it is based upon the Oscar-winning film Hotel Rwanda and the critically acclaimed Shooting Dogs. Yet how accurately do these films depict events in Rwanda in 1994? Drawing on new scholarship, this collection of essays explores a variety of feature films and documentaries about the genocide to understand its expression in both Western and Rwandan cinema. Interviews with filmmakers are featured, including journalist Steve Bradshaw, BBC's Panorama director Nick Hughes, 100 Days director Lee Isaac Chung, Munyurangabo, and Rwandan filmmakers Eric Kabera and Kivu Ruhorahoza.

The Syria Dilemma Nader Hashemi, Danny Postel, 2013-09-05. The current conflict in Syria has killed more than 80,000 people and displaced four million; yet most observers predict that the worst is still to come. And for two years the international community has failed to take action. World leaders have repeatedly resolved not to let atrocities happen in plain view, but the legacy of the bloody and costly intervention in Iraq has left policymakers with little appetite for more military operations. So we find ourselves in the grip of a double burden: the urge to stop the bleeding in Syria and the fear that attempting to do so would be Iraq redux. What should be done about the apparently intractable Syrian conflict? This book focuses on the ethical and political dilemmas at the heart of the debate about Syria and the possibility of humanitarian intervention in today's world. The contributors, Syria experts, international relations theorists, human rights activists and scholars of humanitarian intervention, don't always agree, but together they represent the best political thinking on the issue. The Syria Dilemma includes original pieces from Michael Ignatieff, Mary Kaldor, Radwan Ziadeh, Thomas Pierret, Afra Jalabi and others. Contributors: Asli B. Ili, Richard Falk, Tom Farer, Charles Glass, Shadi Hamid, Nader Hashemi, Christopher Hill, Michael Ignatieff, Afra Jalabi, Rafif Jouejati, Mary Kaldor, Marc Lynch, Vali Nasr, Thomas Pierret, Danny Postel, Aziz Rana, Christoph Reuter, Kenneth Roth, Anne Marie Slaughter, Fareed Zakaria, Radwan Ziadeh, Stephen Zunes.

Political Psychology David Patrick Houghton, 2014-08-25. What shapes political behavior more: the situations in which individuals find themselves or the internal psychological makeup—beliefs, values, and so on—of those individuals? This is perhaps the leading division within the psychological study of politics today. Political Psychology: Situations, Individuals, and Cases, 2nd edition, provides a concise, readable, and conceptually organized introduction to the topic of political psychology by examining this very question. Using this situationism/dispositionism framework, which roughly parallels the concerns of social and cognitive psychology, this book focuses on such key explanatory mechanisms as behaviorism, obedience, personality, groupthink, cognition, affect, emotion, and neuroscience to explore topics ranging from voting behavior and racism to terrorism and international relations. The new edition includes a new chapter on the psychology of the media and communication. Houghton has also updated the text to analyze recent political events such as the 2012 election and to include up-and-coming research in the areas of neuroscience, behavioral economics, and more. Houghton's clear and engaging examples directly challenge students to place themselves in both real and hypothetical situations which involve intense moral and political dilemmas This highly readable text will provide students with the conceptual foundation they need to make sense of the rapidly changing and increasingly important field of political psychology The Crime of All Crimes Nicole Rafter, 2016-03-29 Cambodia Rwanda Armenia Nazi Germany History remembers these places as the sites of unspeakable crimes against humanity and indisputably of genocide Yet throughout the twentieth century the world has seen many instances of violence committed by states against certain groups within their borders from the colonial ethnic cleansing the Germans committed against the Herero tribe in Africa to the Katyn Forest Massacre in which the Soviets shot over 20 000 Poles to anti communist mass murders in 1960s Indonesia Are mass crimes against humanity like these still genocide And how can an understanding of crime and criminals shed new light on how genocide the crime of all crimes transpires In The Crime of All Crimes criminologist Nicole Rafter takes an innovative approach to the study of genocide by comparing eight diverse genocides large scale and small well known and obscure through the lens of criminal behavior Rafter explores different models of genocidal activity reflecting on the popular use of the Holocaust as a model for genocide and ways in which other genocides conform to different patterns For instance Rafter questions the assumption that only ethnic groups are targeted for genocidal cleansing and she also urges that actions such as genocidal rape be considered alongside traditional instances of genocidal violence Further by examining the causes of genocide on different levels Rafter is able to construct profiles of typical victims and perpetrators and discuss means of preventing genocide in addition to delving into the social psychology of genocidal behavior and the ways in which genocides are brought to an end A sweeping and innovative investigation into the most tragic of events in the modern world The Crime of All Crimes will fundamentally change how we think about genocide in the present day On Shame Michael Morgan, 2011-04-06 Shame is one of a family of self conscious emotions that includes embarrassment guilt disgrace and humiliation On Shame examines this emotion psychologically and philosophically in order to show how it can be a galvanizing force for moral action against the violence and atrocity that characterize the world we live in Michael L Morgan argues that because shame is global in its sense of the self the moral failures of all groups in which we are a member including the entire human race reflect on each person individually Drawing on historical and current affairs to explore the emotion of shame as well as films such as Night and Fog Hotel Rwanda and Life is Beautiful and the work of Primo Levi Bernard Williams and Stanley Cavell Michael Morgan illustrates how moral responsibility can be facilitated by calling upon an emotional reaction that is familiar complex and central to our conception of ourselves as individuals and as members of society Writing and Filming the Genocide of the Tutsis in Rwanda Alexandre Dauge-Roth, 2010-04-27 Writing and Filming the Genocide of the Tutsis in Rwanda Dismembering and Remembering Traumatic History is an innovative work in Francophone and African studies that examines a wide range of responses to the 1994 genocide of the Tutsis in Rwanda From survivor testimonies to novels by African authors to films such as Hotel Rwanda and Sometimes in April the arts of witnessing are varied comprehensive and compelling Alexandre Dauge Roth compares the specific potential and the limits of each medium to craft unique responses to the genocide and instill in us its haunting legacy In the wake of genocide urgent questions arise How do survivors both claim their shared humanity and speak the radically personal and violent experience of their past How do authors and filmmakers make inconceivable trauma accessible to a society that will always remain foreign to their experience How are we transformed by the genocide through these various modes of listening viewing and reading
