The Ideological Scramble for Africa Frank Gerits, 2023-03-15 In The Ideological Scramble for Africa Frank Gerits examines how African leaders in the 1950s and 1960s crafted an anticolonial modernization project Rather than choose Cold War sides between East and West anticolonial nationalists worked to reverse the psychological and cultural destruction of colonialism Kwame Nkrumah's African Union was envisioned as a federation of liberation to challenge the extant imperial forces the US empire of liberty the Soviet empire of equality and the European empires of exploitation In the 1950s the goal of proving the potency of a pan African ideology shaped the agenda of the Bandung Conference and Ghana's support for African liberation while also determining what was at stake in the Congo crisis and in the fight against white minority rule in southern and eastern Africa In the 1960s the attempt to remake African psychology was abandoned and socioeconomic development came into focus Anticolonial nationalists did not simply resist or utilize imperial and Cold War pressures but drew strength from the example of the Haitian Revolution of 1791 in which Toussaint Louverture demanded the universal application of Europe's Enlightenment values The liberationists of the postwar period wanted to redesign society in the image of the revolution that had created them The Ideological Scramble for Africa demonstrates that the Cold War struggle between capitalism and Communism was only one of two ideological struggles that picked up speed after 1945 the battle between liberation and imperialism proved to be more enduring

Living History Godfrey N. Brown, 2022-02-16 Originally published in 1967 this book represents the late Professor Brown's twin skills as historian and as educationalist at their best It is one of a series of books which he edited and which was offered to Africa teachers in training The series was designed to help those who were called upon to teach the many subjects of the primary school curriculum or two or more subjects with the junior forms of secondary schools It is dedicated to the proposition that giving a good basic education to a country's children is vital to its development programme Godfrey Brown's book starts with a discussion of the place and purpose of history in education why do we teach it to children He then describes methods of teaching language skills in history observation and at some length social development through history He ends with The History of the Future and two practical appendices listing where the African teacher of history could obtain useful teaching material

From Slavery to Citizenship Richard Ennals, 2007-04-04 Citizenship is not a spectator sport it is all about engagement From Slavery to Citizenship is part of a bigger picture a development process which will enable us to gain more control over our own lives and to participate in decisions about the future direction of society and the organisations we are involved in This book is unusual in suggesting that slavery is not a remote historical phenomenon but a fundamental component of our present People have been slaves in the past and some people are enslaved today The subject of slavery is highly charged with emotion From Slavery to Citizenship seeks to facilitate dialogue and to bridge gaps This is not easy as people have been speaking different languages and working from diverse sets of assumptions A first step is to listen and to learn from differences In this book a single author's voice brings together contributions from major public figures and respected thinkers Within a rich tapestry of perspectives there is no single line of argument or one overall conclusion There are contributions from Africa North and South America Western and Eastern Europe and Asia and from discourses in work organisation occupational health psychiatry and human rights as well as education After reading the book you are unlikely to conclude that all of the contributors have agreed but you will find that they give you a starting point from which to reflect and begin discussion as well as the tools to engage in active citizenship
