The Crusade of Frederick Barbarossa G.A. Loud, 2016-03-16 This is the first English translation of the main contemporary accounts of the Crusade and death of the German Frederick I Barbarossa ruled 1152-90 The most important of these the History of the Expedition of the Emperor Frederick was written soon after the events described and is a crucial and under used source for the Third Crusade at least in the Anglophone world The account begins with two letters describing the disaster of Hattin and Saladin's subsequent conquest of most of the Holy Land the second of these is addressed to the duke of Austria It goes on to describe how the emperor took the Cross the preparations and recruitment for the Crusade the diplomatic contacts of Barbarossa with the Byzantine Emperor and the Sultan of Iconium in an attempt to secure a peaceful passage for the expedition and the Crusade itself the journey through the Balkans and the gruelling march through Asia Minor beset by Turkish attack until its arrival at Antioch on 21st July 1190 eleven days after the emperor had drowned while crossing a river in Cilician Armenia The History gives a vivid account of the sufferings of the German army as it traversed Asia Minor The account of the expedition itself appears to be or to be based upon an eyewitness record cast in the form of often a daily memoir However it concludes with an account of the captivity and release of Richard I in Germany Henry VI's conquest of the kingdom of Sicily and of the preparations for a new Crusade under his leadership In addition a number of further accounts related to and expanding the History of the Expedition have also been translated including a contemporary newsletter about the death of the emperor as well as the narrative of Otto of St Blasien placing the Crusade into context twenty years later and a contemporary account of the capture of Silves in Portugal by German crusaders on their way to the Holy Land in 1189 This collection is a valuable companion volume to the three other volumes relating to the Third Crusade in this series The Conquest of Jerusalem and the Third Crusade trans Edbury the Itinerarium Peregrinorum et Gesta Regis Ricardi trans Nicholson and The Rare and Excellent History of Saladin trans Richards

Rewriting the First Crusade Thomas W. Smith, 2024 An exploration of the letters from the First Crusade yielding evidence for a number of reinterpretations of the movement The letters stemming from the First Crusade are premier sources for understanding the launch campaign and aftermath of the expedition Between 1095 and 1100 epistles sustained social relationships across the Mediterranean and within Europe as a mixture of historical writing literary invention news and theological interpretation They served ecclesiastical administration projected authority and formed focal points for spiritual commemoration and para liturgical campaigns This volume grounded on extensive research into the original manuscripts and presenting numerous new manuscript witnesses argues that some of the letters are post hoc inventions composed by generations of scribe readers who visited crusading sites from the twelfth century on adding new layers of meaning in the form of interpolations and post scripts Drawing upon this new understanding and blurring the distinction of epistolary reality it rewrites central aspects of the history of the First Crusade considering the documents in a new way as markers of enthusiasm and support for the crusade movement among monastic clergy who copied and consumed them as a form of scribal crusading Whether authentic letters or literary confections they functioned as communal sites for the celebration commemoration and memorialisation of the expedition

Martyrdom: A Guide for the Perplexed Paul Middleton, 2011-06-02 It can be said almost without exaggeration that martyrdom has become one of the most pressing theological issues facing the contemporary world Since the attack on the World Trade Center in 2001 the world has had to face up to an Islamic manifestation of martyrdom Martyrdom has a long history as long as individuals have been dying for their faith or cause others have been telling and more importantly interpreting their stories These martyrologies are essentially conflict stories Whether a Christian confessing her faith before a bemused Roman governor or a suicide bomber blowing himself up in a crowded cafe in Jerusalem the way these stories are recounted positively or negatively reflect a wider conflict in which the narrator and his community find themselves Martyr narratives whether textual oral or even a CNN news report do more than simply report a death they also contain the interpretative framework by which that death is understood again positively or negatively When the death of a martyr is reported the way in which that story is told places that death within a larger narrative of conflict which may be regional global or even cosmic The martyr becomes a symbol of the community's desires and hopes or for that matter their terrors and fears but in either case the martyr is representative of a larger struggle and often martyrology contains the vision of how the community envisages final victory over their enemy This book aims to illuminate the way these conflict stories have been told and function principally though not exclusively within Christian Jewish and Islamic communities

Continuum's Guides for the Perplexed are clear concise and accessible introductions to thinkers writers and subjects that students and readers can find especially challenging or indeed downright bewildering Concentrating specifically on what it is that makes the subject difficult to grasp these books explain and explore key themes and ideas guiding the reader towards a thorough understanding of demanding material
