The American nation in the Civil War era, was divided by the increasing tensions of the West. This era involved dramatic changes that occurred every year. These were major events like the Civil War, Reconstruction, and the end of the Civil War.

After the Civil War, the United States became a more powerful nation. It gained new territories and improved its infrastructure.

During this time, the United States also experienced significant technological advancements, such as the telegraph and the transcontinental railroad.

Finally, the Civil War era marked the beginning of the modern United States, where the nation became more industrialized, and the division of interests between the North and the South was lessened.
