World History: Connections to Today Elisabeth Gaynor Ellis,Pearson/Prentice Hall,2003-12 British Imperialism and 'the Tribal Question' Robert Fletcher,2015 British Imperialism and The Tribal Question reconstructs the history of Britain s presence in the deserts of the interwar Middle East making the case for its significance to scholars of imperialism

and of the region's past. It tells the story of what happened when the British Empire and Bedouin communities met on the desert frontiers between the Mediterranean Sea and the Persian Gulf. It traces the workings of the resulting practices of desert administration from their origins in the wake of one World War to their eclipse after the next as British officials, Bedouin shaykhs and nationalist politicians jostled to influence desert affairs. Drawn to the commanding heights of political society in the region's towns and cities, historians have tended to afford frontier margins merely marginal treatment. Instead, this volume combines the study of imperialism, nomads and the desert itself to reveal the centrality of desert administration to the working of Britain's empire, repositioning neglected frontier areas as nerve centres of imperial activity. British Imperialism and The Tribal Question leads the shift in historians' attentions from the familiar urban seats of power to the desert hinterlands that have long been obscured. The British Empire in the Middle East, 1945-1951 William Roger Louis, 1984. With intellectual rigor and careful attention to recently released papers, Wm Roger Louis's study asks: Why did Britain's colonial empire begin to collapse in 1945 and how did the post-war Labour government attempt to sustain a vision of the old Empire through imperialism in the Middle East? Some Aspects of British Rule in India Sudhindra Bose, 1916.

Making the British empire, 1660-1800 Jason Peacey, 2020-06-24. This collection offers a timely reappraisal of the origins and nature of the first British empire in response to the cultural turn in historical scholarship and the new imperial history. It addresses topics that have been neglected in recent literature, providing a series of political and institutional perspectives. At the same time, it recognises the importance of developments across the empire, not least in terms of how they affected imperial policy and its implementation. It analyses a range of contemporary debates and ideas, political and intellectual, as well as religious and administrative, relating to political economy, legal geography and sovereignty, as well as the messy realities of the imperial project, including the costs and losses of empire collectively and individually. The British Empire Sir Charles Prestwood Lucas, 1915. The Great Literacy Debate Andrew Goodwyn, Carol Fuller, 2012-03-29. This book is the first definitive and objective attempt to examine the actual impact of The National Literacy Strategy and its secondary version, The Framework for English. Educational Systems of the Chief Colonies of the British Empire ... Great Britain. Board of Education, 1901. Great Road Agnes Smedley, 1972. Chu Teh, one of the legendary figures of the Chinese Revolution, was born in 1886. He was commander in chief of the People's Revolutionary Army, and this is the story of the first sixty years of his life. As a supreme commanding general, he was probably unique; surely there has never been another commander in chief who during his years of service spun, wove, set, type, grew and cooked his own food, wrote poetry and lectured not only to his troops on military strategy and tactics but to women's classes on how to preserve vegetables. Evans Carlson wrote that Chu Teh has the kindness of a Robert E. Lee, the tenacity of a Grant and the humility of a Lincoln. More than a biography, this work by a great American woman journalist, who took the account from Chu Teh himself, is a social and historical document of the highest value. Agricultural Instruction for Adults in the British
