WHO recommendations on choice of antiseptic agent and method of application for preoperative skin preparation for caesarean section ,2021-06-18 There was a lack of evidence to recommend a specific concentration of chlorhexidine gluconate however most trials included used 2% chlorhexidine gluconate in 70% alcohol Maternal allergy to alcohol based chlorhexidine gluconate must be excluded before surgery In women with no previous history of allergy to alcohol based chlorhexidine gluconate it should be noted that chlorhexidine gluconate can cause skin irritation A standard preoperative skin preparation technique that is appropriate for the intended skin incision must be followed As alcohol is highly flammable alcohol based antiseptic preparations may ignite if used in the presence of diathermy and they must be allowed to dry by evaporation It is advisable to ensure that the drapes are not saturated with alcohol or that the alcohol based solution has not formed a pool underneath the woman before starting surgery Particular care should be taken at emergency caesarean section Where chlorhexidine gluconate is not available other antiseptic agent such as povidone iodine can be considered a suitable antiseptic agent for preoperative skin preparation although it is not as effective as alcohol based chlorhexidine gluconate The Guideline Development Group noted that the current recommendation is consistent with the 2016 WHO global guidelines on the prevention of surgical site infection which recommends chlorhexidine gluconate alcohol based antiseptic solutions for surgical site skin preparation in individuals undergoing surgical procedures WHO recommendation on vaginal preparation with antiseptic agents for women undergoing caesarean section, 2021-06-18 While the evidence on vaginal preparation before caesarean section was largely derived from trials using povidone iodine benefit was demonstrated overall for any antiseptic either povidone iodine or chlorhexidine gluconate versus no antiseptic Included trials used varying concentrations of chlorhexidine gluconate 0.05% to 0.25% or povidone iodine 1% to 10% and the base aqueous or alcohol was not described However the Guideline Development Group agreed that alcohol based antiseptic solutions should not be used for vaginal preparation because of concerns around irritation of mucosa This recommendation pertains to all women undergoing caesarean section regardless of their baseline risk of infectious morbidity following surgery i.e. for caesarean section in women before or during labour and women with intact or ruptured membranes Whilst available trials were not clear on the timing of vaginal preparation relative to the caesarean section the Guideline Development Group suggested that vaginal preparation should be performed as close to the start of caesarean section as possible e.g. directly following preoperative urinary bladder catheterization to minimize the woman's discomfort

Medinfo Marius Fieschi,Enrico Coiera,Yu-Chan Jack Li,2004 A fundamental challenge for medical informatics is to develop and apply better ways of understanding how information technologies and methods can help support the best care for every patient every day given available medical knowledge and resources In order to provide the most effective healthcare possible the activities of teams of health professionals have to be coordinated through well designed processes centered on the needs of patients For information systems to be accepted and used in such an environment they must balance standardization based on shared medical knowledge with the flexibility required for customization to the individual patient Developing innovative approaches to design and build evidence based careflow management systems is essential for providing the knowledge management infrastructure of health care organizations that seeks to increase performance in delivering high quality care services by efficiently exploiting available resources challenges arise in the organization of research at the biological and clinical levels where the focus on systematically organizing and supporting processes of scientific inquiry by novel informatics methods and databases are in their very early stages These Proceedings of Medinfo 2004 demonstrate the base of knowledge medical informatics professionals will collectively draw upon in the years ahead to meet these challenges and realize opportunities WHO guidelines on physical activity and sedentary behaviour World Health Organization,2020-11-20 The WHO Guidelines on physical activity and sedentary behaviour provide evidence based public health recommendations for children adolescents adults and older adults on the amount of physical activity frequency intensity and duration required to offer significant health benefits and mitigate health risks For the first time recommendations are provided on the associations between sedentary behaviour and health outcomes as well as for subpopulations such as pregnant and postpartum women and people living with chronic conditions or disability
